Shooting charges awaited

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet faces an April 8 court appearance and a possible charge of criminally negligent homicide in the shooting death of ski star Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond on Monday after a 22-minute court hearing on the death of Sabich, 31. He was killed Sunday evening when struck in the abdomen by a bullet fired from a handgun.

Her eyes red from crying, Miss Longet, 34, was read her rights and left the courthouse in this Rocky Mountain ski resort town with singer Andy Williams, her former husband.

Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said Miss Longet and her three children had been living with Sabich for the past two years. She first met the skier in 1972, after she was separated from Williams. The entertainers were divorced last September.

Elections panel now all but dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission, the government's experiment in changing the financial rules of politics, is all but dead today, stripped of its power to disburse millions of taxpayer dollars to presidential candidates and their parties.

The FEC, created to administer and enforce the 1974 campaign finance law that arose from the Watergate scandal, lost most of its powers at midnight Monday as Congress failed to meet a deadline for restructuring it in compliance with a Supreme Court order.

Congress had been told by the court to alter the FEC so that all members were appointed by the president or the commission would forfeit its power to disburse funds to presidential candidates and to the Democratic and Republican parties for their summer conventions.

The inaction of Congress also will restrict FEC authority to carry out the law's regulations on campaign contributions and expenditures.

Still, Senate leaders said they would continue to seek a compromise in an effort to force action on a bill to restructure the FEC.

Leaders of both parties held conferences Monday in an effort to reach a compromise and agreed to meet again today to look over a simplified bill staff aides were putting together overnight.

The Senate spent three days last week debating the legislation to restructure the commission and found itself at an impasse over additional provisions that would make major changes in the 1974 law.

"If we are going to get a bill, both sides will have to make concessions," said Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Rules Committee.

But Senate leaders appeared doubtful that any major breakthrough would be forthcoming soon. GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin said, "We are a long way from any agreement."

The House has not yet even taken up legislation to comply with the Supreme Court's Jan. 30 ruling.

The 1974 law provided for tax funds to match private contributions of $250 or less raised by candidates in their primary campaigns.

Before its power ran out, the FEC disbursed $980,266 to presidential candidates Monday, bringing the total for the year to $12.62 million. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace got the largest share Monday, $339,603, and President Ford was second with $167,758.

Book by Israeli blasts Kissinger and does not intend to read it. Every excerpt the secretary has seen from the book has been, in his view, either an egregious distortion, an outright lie, or so taken out of context that it amounts to a lie.

Golan's book initially was banned by Israeli censors but was cleared for publication with some revisions after government seizure of the manuscript became known publicly. It is being published this week in the United States by the Quadrangle Press.

Beside Kissinger, it criticizes Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin for a persistent impulse "to shoot off his mouth" and faults Dinitz for trusting Kissinger too much.

Israeli officials here said they would not comment because the book "is sensational and completely speculative."

Book by Israeli blasts Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new book by an Israeli diplomatic correspondent accuses Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger of bad faith in his Middle East negotiations.

Author Matti Golan accuses Kissinger of slowing down vital U.S. arms replacements to Israel during the 1973 war and of reneging last year on a promise to commit the United States to Israel's assistance should the Russians intervene militarily in the area.

Before last summer's Sinai settlement with Egypt, Golan claims, Kissinger agreed in a meeting with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz in the Virgin Islands that in case the Russians involved themselves in the Middle East "there would be active counter-involvement by the United States."

But, in the settlement itself, the commitment was worded so that the United States agreed only to "consult" with Israel. Kissinger later explained that he had not given enough thought to the likelihood of congressional objections to a broader pledge, Golan writes in "The Secret Conversations of Henry Kissinger."

Golan is a correspondent for the newspaper Haaretz.

He also charges Kissinger with breaking a pledge after the war turned in Israel's favor to give Israeli forces a few days' time to secure their position on the west bank of the Suez Canal and misinforming Israel in 1974 that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had agreed to reopen the canal to shipping, including Israeli cargo, before another round of negotiations.

Asked for Kissinger's comment, a State Department spokesman said: "The secretary has not seen the book

Population growth worries U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation and unemployment may become permanent problems even for highly developed nations unless world population growth is reduced, says a new United Nations-financed study.

In reviewing 22 issues affected by population, the study concluded that "nearly all have one thing in common:

they can be expected to get much worse before they get better."

Rapid population growth, it said, is already straining the world's capacity to grow crops, catch fish, fight illness, provide housing and jobs, and fight off inflation and pollution.

The study was prepared by the Worldwatch Institute, a private non-profit research organization, with funding from the United Nations Fund for Population Activities.

Population growth is leading to increased urbanization, overgrazing of forage lands, destruction of forests, crowding and political conflict, and demands on energy, minerals and resources, the study said.

If unchecked, the report added, the problems brought on by high population could become so severe that they could be solved only at the cost of severe restraints on individual freedom.

Underdeveloped countries generally face the worst problems, with high rates of population growth and limited resources. But the report said rich industrialized countries like the United States are not immune.

Population growth, it said, was an important factor in what it described as a new kind of monetary inflation caused by an actual scarcity of resources that could not expand as fast as the population and its demands can and do.

"With four billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may grow chronic," it said.

"Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges that political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation simply may not be manageable."

U.S. population growth has already slowed down to the range of around 1 per cent a year, but the demand for resources per person has continued to increase rapidly, at around 3 per cent or more per year.

The situation is far worse in underdeveloped countries with higher population rates and a need for rapid increase of per capita incomes.

'Assault Leave' vote slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State representatives called for a vote today on a bill that could provide "assault leave" for teachers injured by students or school intruders and forced to miss work while recuperating.

Rep. Francine Panehal, D-5 Cleveland, the chief sponsor, said it is needed to help combat increasing incidents of attacks on teachers, especially in inner city areas but not necessarily confined to them.

Mrs. Panehal's measure was among a handful of measures that faced the House as it convened for the legislature's 12th work week of the year.

Senators returned from weekend recess Monday night and approved a bill that requires health and accident insurance policies covering Ohio workers to include options for maternity benefits.

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, said his bill, which went to the House on a vote of 27-0, would end a discriminatory practice of longstanding against women who comprise "a full 40 per cent of Ohio's work force."

Objecting to House amendments, senators refused 26-0 to concur for passage of a Senate bill correcting a legislative error of two years ago and making it legal for children's tricycles to be ridden on sidewalks. Senate sponsors said they want a conference committee to discuss a House amendment that lifted a 20-mile per hour speed limit on bicycles.

In other action Monday night, spokesmen for Ohio Bell and Cincinnati Bell Telephone companies asked a committee to defeat a bill that would prevent them from charging extra for more than three calls a month to directory assistance operators.

They said the measure, pending before the Senate Ways and Means Committee, could mean an increase of 35 cents a month in the average charge of $8 a month for basic telephone service. The telephone spokesmen also asserted the present system is open to abuse by subscribers who call for telephone numbers when they could look them up in the book.

Cincinnati Bell was given permission by the Public Utilities Commission more than two years ago to charge 20 cents for each information call after the first three each month by the same subscriber. Ohio Bell is seeking to do the same under a rate increase application it currently has pending before the commission.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, Ways and Means chairman, is sponsor of the bill. She said it was ridiculous for the companies to want to charge twice as much for an information call than it does for a regular call from a pay station.

The Communications Workers of America (CWA) is supporting the bill. A union official testified at a previous hearing that the move by Ohio Bell would cost the jobs of 1,200 telephone operators represented by the CWA.

Stock list sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's recent indecisive trend continued today, with prices mixed and trading sluggish.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks sank a fraction in the early going, but gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market had turned in mixed showings both last Friday and Monday, and analysts said investors seemed to be waiting for some new force to give it a push in one direction or the other.

Today's early prices included Schlumberger, unchanged at 75 1/4; Sperry Rand, up 1/2 at 47 3/4; S.S. Kresge, off 1/4 at 38 1/2, and City Investing, down 1/4 at 10.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average managed a 2.44 gain to 982.29.

Arrest man for murder of six persons

TREVOSE, Pa. (AP) — A 24-year-old neighbor has been arrested and charged with murder in the execution-style killing of six persons in a suburban home. Authorities said the slayings apparently stemmed from "a personal vendetta."

George Geschwendt, 24, was taken into custody Monday night at the Bensalem Township police station, said Police Chief Lawrence Michaels. He was charged with six counts of murder in connection with the killing of six persons at the Bucks County home of John Abt on March 12.

Michaels said Geschwendt is a bachelor and lives with his mother and a brother in a house directly across from the Abt family's home. He is being held without bail pending a preliminary hearing March 26, the chief said.

Michaels and Bucks County Dist. Atty. Kenneth Biehn would make no comment on the case except to say the killings apparently resulted from "a personal vendetta." They would not say what led them to Geschwendt, if a murder weapon was found or how Geschwendt came to be arrested.

They did say the killings were not drug-related, as had been suspected earlier in the investigation.

The bodies of Abt and his wife, Margaret, both about 50; three of their children, Margaret, 19, Cathy, 15, and John, 13; and Margie's boyfriend, Garson Engel, 20, were found in the basement of the suburban home about four miles from Philadelphia.

Police said the killings occurred between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. that Friday night.

Reagan casts eyes on Ohio

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is mounting a last-minute drive to enter Ohio's presidential primary, his Ohio representative, local businessman Peter Voss, says.

Voss, who confirmed the campaign in response to questions posed by the Akron Beacon Journal, said the decision was reached late Monday and that his credentials were flown from Washington late that same night. The Akron afternoon newspaper reported the decision in today's editions, crediting Reagan campaign sources for its initial word.

To make Thursday afternoon's filing deadline, Voss must gather 97 delegates and 1,500 signatures for petitions plus 150 signatures in each of the state's 23 congressional districts. "It is not the 11th hour, it's at least 11:35," Voss said today. "We're facing odds upon odds upon odds, but we might be able to do it."

"There is no sense looking at the negatives now," he added. "We must look at the positives."

Voss, an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination in 1974, said he had been contacted by a Reagan aide several weeks ago and then flew to Washington to talk with Reagan's campaign manager, John Sears, a few days after the New Hampshire primary but that nothing was settled at that time.

Magna Carta delegation

After a period of more arm twisting than soul searching, the House of Representatives has reversed itself and approved of sending a large congressional delegation to London to accept a copy of Magna Carta for Bicentennial display. It is a victory of sorts for Speaker Carl Albert, who for rather obscure reasons chose to make the matter a test of his influence.

The first time around the House voted down a plan to send 12 senators, 13 congressmen and their spouses and some staff people on the Magna Carta mission. The argument which prevailed was the sensible one that there was no need send so many for such a purpose, with a blank check for expenses.

Albert in effect ignored this point, arguing that failure to send a delegation would be a snub to the British. That was not in fact the issue: the issue was not whether a delegation should be sent, but how big it ought to be.

Albert nevertheless went to work, enlisting White House help, to push through the original plan. In the end he was successful, even to the extent of winning rejection of an attempt to place some limit on spending. Congress will send 25 members, plus spouses and staff, for a round of festivities related to the Magna Carta loan. We keep recalling California Rep. Glenn M. Anderson's comment on the floor that "since only three wise men were sent to honor the birth of Jesus Christ, the same number might be adequate to our purpose."

LOCAL VIEWPOINT...By George Malek

Heading for election boredom

Unless a number of local political candidates come bounding out of the woodwork during the last few days before the filing deadline, Fayette County voters are in for a very boring ballot June 8—at least candidatewise.

As of the closing of office hours Monday, only 12 persons (nine Republicans and three Democrats) had filed for the eight countywide offices to be filled in the November election. Only one office can boast a primary battle.

Although 19 persons had requested petitions, less than two-thirds have actually filed, and the deadline for all candidates is 4 p.m. Thursday. Unless a petition is filed by then, a candidate cannot appear on the ballot for the June primary election or the November general election.

The treasurer's seat being vacated by Harold A. Hise has seen three candidates file petitions for office. A primary contest between Republicans Jean Palmer and Ella May Belt is the only intra-party contest established to date.

Five county offices have only one candidate from either party. Incumbent Republican candidates have filed for the recorder, coroner, sheriff and one county commissioner's post. Republican Donald Conley is the only candidate thus far for county engineer. No one, including incumbent James Kiger, has filed petitions to become county prosecuting attorney.

In addition to the treasurer's post which also has one Democratic petitioner, only two other offices have established a November contest. One Republican and one Democrat have filed petitions for the Jan. 3 county commissioners seat as have one member of each party for the clerk of courts office.

At the precinct level, the situation is even worse. Each precinct is to have had one elected representative on the Central Committee of each party. Although there are 44 precincts in the county, only 10 Republicans and 21 Democrats have filed petitions of candidacy for precinct representative. There are no contested precinct races, and many precincts haven't generated enough political interest to attract a candidate from either party as yet.

The petitions for central committees require only five signatures, and neither party has attracted enough persons to fill its slate of 44 representatives even if everyone who has taken petitions should file before the Thursday deadline. Only 27 Republicans and 37 Democrats have even requested petitions.

Without a surge of last-minute candidates, it will be difficult to blame area voters if there is a poor turnout at the polls. There are no Democratic contests to attract voter interest, and only one Republican battle. The populus can hardly be blamed for not voting when they have only one choice on the ballot.

Outside of the state and national candidates, local tax issues offer the only apparent voter interest.

Washington C.H. residents will be voting on three property tax proposals presented by City Council. Appearing on the ballot will be a one-mill levy for police protection, one-mill for street lighting and three-tenths of a mill for the operation of Washington Cemetery.

Non-city residents don't have that much to look forward to. The only other local issues appearing are a two-tenths mill renewal levy for general operation of the Fayette County Board of Health, which is voted upon by both city and non-city voters. Union Township residents alone will vote on a .75-mill renewal of fire protection levy.

Party organizations have only 48 hours to drum out their candidates or present Fayette County voters with an acute case of primary ballot blahs.

EDITOR, Record-Herald:

Schools are places to teach and learn and oft times, little recognition is given to the achievement in academics which should be the primary reason for attending school. Students in sports are always recognized at banquets and rightly so for their various accomplishments during the season. This is great, but what academics? True, we have honor rolls and honorable mentions. But banquets for academics—they are few and far between.

The Fayette County area can be proud of at least one group that feels academics is also important and spends nearly $1,000 each year to sponsor such a banquet. That group is the Fayette Area Bankers Association composed of the First National Bank of Washington C.H., the Huntington Bank, the First National Bank of New Holland, and the Fayette County Bank.

Four years ago, the Fayette Area Bankers took on the project of sponsoring the induction banquet for new members of the National Honor Society and their parents. This banquet combines both Miami Trace and Washington Senior High Schools and recognizes these students in areas of scholarship, leadership, service and character. The banquet is impressive and should be.

The Fayette Area Bankers are to be commended for such a fine project.

State priorities set

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Legislative leaders, vowing to wind up major business in the next few weeks, have narrowed their list of top priorities down to about a half dozen major issues.

Foremost among them, said House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, are bills that hold the promise property tax relief and repeal the antiquated formula used by Ohio's utilities to justify need for rate increases.

Riffe also mentioned a pair of elections bills, needed by a March 25 deadline if they are to have any effect on the June primary, another measure permitting charitable bingo games, and an omnibus retirement bill which in its present form would grant retired members of the state's retirement system a small (from 1½ per cent to 3 per cent) cost of living increase, and make some changes in the way the systems operate.

"We plan to adjourn no later than the first of May," said Riffe, adding that the lawmakers probably then will come back in June to act on possible gubernatorial vetoes and complete any other remaining business.

The property tax measure, approved by the House but now stalled in a Senate Ways and Means subcommittee, would provide tax credits to real estate taxpayers to compensate for inflationary increases in the value of their property.

It is under attack by industries and corporations which would be excluded from the credits. Riffe said the measure could be freed through a compromise with the corporate taxpayers that would give them another long sought bill reducing the rate of their tangible personal property tax.

The utilities measure, repealing the highly publicized and embattled RCN (reconstruction cost new) formula, has been widely amended in a House committee over strong objections of Senate sponsors.

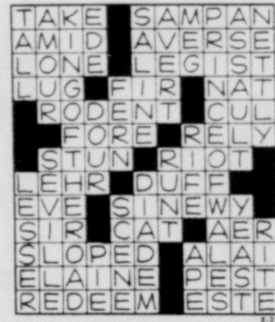

That measure replaces the formula, which lets net worth be calculated on the basis of what it would cost to replace plants and equipment at present market prices, with a new formula restricting such calculations to original costs. Senate-House differences are virtually certain to send the legislation to a joint conference committee.

Passed by one House and under study in opposite chambers are measures eliminating Ohio's bed sheet ballot in presidential election years, and carrying out an Ohio Supreme Court mandate for candidates' names to be rotated on ballots from precinct to precinct. The former now is being studied in the Senate while the rotation bill is awaiting action in the House.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Worn-out Romeo gets a tune-up

DEAR ABBY: I am 49. Joe is 50. I thought we had a pretty good 30-year marriage. Joe never was much of a Romeo, but that never was a problem as I was usually pretty pooped at the end of the day and I'm not exactly a sexpot myself.

Well, imagine the shock I got when a 30-year-old divorcee who works for Joe phones here in the middle of the night to tell him that she had taken 30 sleeping pills and to say goodbye, because she didn't want to live without him! (I was right next to him and heard every word she said.)

Joe jumped out of bed, threw some clothes on and was out of the house in three minutes. Meanwhile I sat there in a daze. Well, to make a long story short, Joe got her to a hospital, they pumped her stomach out and she lived.

Now he is trying to tell me that she is just a "kid" who had a crush on him—he saw her at her place a couple of times and that's all there was to it. She's still working for him, and Joe says since she's got two kids to support, he sees no reason for letting her go.

Now when he goes to Lodge on Mondays, bowls on Tuesdays and plays cards on Thursdays, I wonder where he REALLY is.

I offered him a divorce, and he said he wouldn't consider it. He insists he "loves" me. Of course I can't trust him anymore, but I don't know what to do. Can you help me?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Tell Joe that for the sake of your peace of mind you think the two of you should talk over the situation with a professional counselor. If he refuses to go-go without him.

DEAR ABBY: This is an S.O.S. I just received a letter from a friend saying that she was enclosing some money as a gift to me. Abby, there was no money in the envelope. In fact, the envelope wasn't even sealed.

The money could have fallen out or even been stolen. Or perhaps she may have forgotten to enclose it.

How should I reply? If I thank her for it and she never enclosed the money, she'll know I was lying. If I tell her there was no money in the envelope, it may look like I'm grabby.

How would you handle this, Abby?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Write and tell her that there was no money in the envelope. If the situation were reversed, wouldn't you want to know?

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who does not drive, so she is forever asking me to please pick up something for her at the grocery store.

I really don't mind doing this but she doesn't remember what she owes me. I hate to be petty, Abby, but I write everything down and I know what she owes me to the penny.

I don't have the nerve to bring up what she owes me. Any suggestions? I don't want to get her mad at me.

TIMID

DEAR TIMID: Yes. The next time she calls, tell her how much she owes you and what for. And if she gets mad at you, it will be her loss, not yours.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, March 23, the 83rd day of 1976. There are 283 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, Patrick Henry made a plea for American freedom in a speech before the Virginia Provincial Convention in Richmond. He declared: "Give me liberty or give me death."

On this date — In 1534, Pope Clement VII declared valid the marriage of Henry VIII of England to Catherine of Aragon.

In 1868, the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson began in Washington. He was acquitted.

In 1919, Benito Mussolini founded a new political movement in Italy.

In 1942, the wartime program of moving Japanese-Americans from their homes on the West Coast to inland camps was begun.

In 1956, Pakistan became a republic but retained membership in the British Commonwealth.

In 1965, the first two-man American space team was shot into orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla. It was the first of the Gemini series, with astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young making the pioneer flight.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson stated that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would push ahead without France, if that became necessary.

Five years ago: Eighty thousand farmers from six European countries marched in Brussels, Belgium to demand higher prices.

One year ago: In South Vietnam, Communist military forces were overrunning government positions on the outskirts of the old imperial capital of Hue and tightening their noose around the key city.

Today's birthdays: Actress and business executive Joan Crawford is 68. Irish civil right leader Bernadette Devlin is 29.

Thought for today: Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning — the Psalms.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress ended a long debate by resolving that armed American ships could act as privateers to seize British vessels on the high seas.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Connors, out here on the East Coast to publicize an ABC show in which he's starring, was asked if the cancellation of his CBS private eye series last year left him a Mannix depressive.

He just grinned. "Well," said the man who starred in "Mannix" for eight years, "there were a couple of weeks where I'd get up and feel lost. It'd been like a whole life, like a family."

"I sort of felt, 'Well, it's the end of the life.' But then I began to enjoy the time off and really started to unwind. Then, after about four, five months, I began again to get very restless."

"There wasn't enough action going on."

There is to be quite a bit of action in his new show, scheduled for April 4 on ABC. It's called "Track of the Assassin" and it's the pilot for what may become Connors' third series since 1959.

His first show, which lasted but a year, was "Tightrope," in which he played an undercover cop.

Having hung up his "Mannix" gumshoes, he now plays a former homicide detective who quit the force after a bomb blast intended for him killed his wife instead. The ex-cop has a completely new career.

He runs a boat charter operation in Los Angeles. According to Paramount Television, maker of the show, he also spends time trying to track down his wife's killer and occasionally "assists the homicide bureau on special cases."

Which sounds like an almost a-cop show arriving at a time some network executives are saying the craze for cop and private eye shows on TV is about to end, having peaked this season.

Connors, an easy-going Californian who was born in Fresno and got into acting after attending UCLA on a basketball scholarship, didn't offer an opinion on whether the era of TV flatfoots is on the wane.

However, he said a new era may be afoot: "I think the next cycle could very well be what I call 'blue-sky adventure.'"

"Instead of a series about a man going to work in the morning, working in a factory or at a profession, it'll be about a man trying to make his living at something he enjoys, working outside, which tends to lead to action-adventure."

Federal money set for funding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nearly $500 million in fiscal year 1976 federal construction money will be ready for funding early next year, said Ned E. Williams, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

The money is part of the federal construction grant program administered by the EPA. It is used for construction of waste-water treatment facilities, Williams said.

In a letter to Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, Williams said all of the agency's fiscal year 1976 money—$497 million—will be obligated by spring 1977. Seiberling had warned Ohio and other states could lose the money if it were not used by September, 1977.

However, Williams warned that water pollution cleanup in Ohio would be seriously delayed if the federal EPA doesn't allow for construction grant funding in fiscal 1977.

Delta Kappa Gamma birthday luncheon attracts over 100

Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held its birthday luncheon Saturday in the Grace United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall to commemorate the 37th year. Alpha Gamma Chapter of Chillicothe joined in the celebration. The delicious meal was prepared and served by the WSCS ladies of the Church to about 100 members and guests.

Other visitors were from Waverly, Circleville, and Lima. Mrs. Karl Harper, president of Alpha Delta Chapter welcomed the guest, and Mrs. Norine Noble, the president of Chillicothe, responded for her group. President Mrs. Marilyn Scranton of Beta Rho, Circleville, introduced her members, and Miss Harriett Shy, the first president of Beta Tau Chapter, Waverly, introduced her members. Mrs. C.E. Rhoad of Delta Gamma Chapter, Lima, was a guest of Miss Opal Davids. New members of the local Chapter present were Mrs. Gene Sagar, Mrs. Sue Cleary, and Miss Jean Davis. The Friendship Candle was lighted by Mrs. Marilyn Riley.

At the center table was seated the charter members of Alpha Gamma and Alpha Delta Chapters. A salute was given to Mrs. Evelyn Eisenauge, Mrs. Pearl Mace, and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell of Chillicothe; and Miss Opal Davids, Miss Margaret Gibson, Mrs. Harry Elliott, Mrs. Frank Mayo, (first chapter president), and Mrs. Ralph Child of Washington C.H. The table was centered with a lamp of learning candle, and a small birthday cake, decorated with both chapter names, and one red rose, the organization flower. Mrs. John Rhoads dedicated an original verse to the tune of "Memories" to these members. She also led the singing of appropriate songs by all members. Mrs. Harry Craig gave the invocation.

Members were seated at tables decorated with red, white, and blue streamers, red candle, and patriotic hats holding small American flags, which were later given as favors.

Mrs. Riley introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Mary Erwin, of Cincinnati, President of Alpha Delta State, the Ohio organization. She was dressed in a typical 1776 styled dress with dust cap to match. Her topic was "Women of the American Revolution". Abigail Smith Adams, the wife of president John Adams and mother of President John Quincy Adams, wrote many letters to her husband, giving her ideas of the place women could have in the history of our country at that time. Other women Mrs. Erwin spoke of were Mercy Otis Warren, Martha Curtis Washington, and Margaret Cochran Corbin, nicknamed "Molly." Mrs. Warren, who was a close friend of Mrs. Adams, composed and published satirical plays and poems, and is considered the "poet laureate" and "penwoman" of the cause. She also wrote an excellent 3 volume history of the Revolution.

Mrs. Washington spent light winters with her husband in such headquarters as Cambridge, New York City, Morristown, New Windsor, Newburgh, and Valley Forge, always taking with her hams, jellies, and other plantation goodies to share. She organized camp and neighborhood wives to roll bandages, knit socks, and mend shirts. She was also busy helping and encouraging the sick and wounded.

Mrs. Corbin took over her mortally-wounded husband's place in launching cannon balls. Congress made her the first woman pensioner of the United States, and she is the only woman from the Revolution to be buried in the West Point Cemetery because of service in action. This weekend Mrs. Erwin will represent the Ohio organization in the Netherlands to help charter four Chapters, that are being sponsored by Alpha Delta State.

The planning committee for the luncheon was composed of Mrs. Hugh Wilson, chairman, Mrs. Jack Montgomery, Mrs. Robert Angus, Mrs. Tran DelPonte, and Mrs. Paul Davis.

Marriage vows exchanged in Bainbridge Church of Christ

Miss Diana Lynn Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Myers, 5392 U.S. Rt. 22-SE, became the bride of David Richard Lawson, son of Mrs. Thelma Lawson of Cincinnati. The couple exchanged marriage vows in the Bainbridge Church of Christ at 6:30 p.m. March 6 with Mr. Tom Kelly officiating.

Pedestals of palms and two fifteen-branched candelabra made the background for the ceremony. Mrs. Eirington of Bainbridge, organist, presented wedding music.

Miss Fisher chose for her wedding a long white, peasant-style gown of cotton polyester trimmed in lace with empire waistline and long sleeves. Her veil of nylon lace was elbow length. Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped gold necklace. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Esther Pendergraft of Columbus, matron of honor, wore a long powder blue dress with laced front and short puff sleeves.

Altrusa Club

Members of the Washington C.H. Altrusa Club met in the home of Miss Norita Craycraft for a dinner-meeting. The tables were decorated with a St. Patrick Day theme.

The program which followed the dinner consisted of the film, "Wonderful World of Ohio," which featured Ed Ames, singer, beautiful scenery, Wildlife, lake ports, festivals and historical places of interest. The tour through Ohio, which emphasized the attractions and charm of the state, was provided by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

The dinner and program were planned by the vocational committee composed of Miss Craycraft, chairman, Mrs. Will Braun, Mrs. George Stitt, Mrs. Reynold Slaughter Jr., and Mrs. Jessie Moore.

Miss Susan Link was a guest of the club.

Members of the local club will be guests at the Scioto Country Club in Chillicothe, when that club will be observing its 50th anniversary on Wednesday, March 24.

SAUCY ASPARAGUS WITH NEW POTATOES

6-8 new red rose potatoes
1½ pounds fresh asparagus
squeeze of fresh garlic

Mornay Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups milk
½ cup grated Gruyere cheese or Swiss cheese

Scrub potatoes. Peel a small band around the center. Cook potatoes in boiling salted water about 20 minutes or until tender. Drain. Wash asparagus thoroughly. Bend stalk and snap off the tough end. Cut the stalks in long diagonal slices but leave the tips whole. Cook asparagus, covered, in small amount of boiling water with a sprinkle of garlic for about 5 minutes. Drain.

Make sauce by melting butter over low heat and stir in the flour, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Add milk. Stir constantly until sauce is bubbling. Add cheese and stir. Makes 1¼ cups. Combine cooked potatoes and asparagus in a serving bowl and pour sauce over the top. Makes 5-6 servings.

The famed Blue Hole of Castalia, near Sandusky, Ohio, has been called one of the strangest springs in the world. A British officer passing it in 1761 described its spring coming from a hillside "with such force that it boils out of the ground in a column three feet high." Geologists say the wearing away of the ground resulted in the Blue Hole.

State worker says she does nothing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state employe making $18,300 a year claims her bosses have isolated her in a do-nothing job due to her political leanings and pro-labor attitude.

Joyce Saunders, 34, assistant chief of personnel in the Department of Natural Resources and head of the department's labor relations office, said today her titles are meaningless and her days are spent reading magazines.

"It's the first time in my life I've never worked," said the civil service worker who says she votes Democrat.

Saunders, a friend of Patrick Leahy, the state's Democratic party executive director, was hired by the state in the auditor's department in 1971 and was transferred to the natural resources office after a few months, she said.

While in charge of personnel and labor relations, she rose to the civil service designation of Executive VI by January 1975, when a change of governors led to new conflicts for the woman.

Under the new administration of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, she claimed she began having disputes over personnel policies with her supervisor, personnel chief David D. Franklin.

"They are not pro-union unless they can run the unions themselves. They want full control," Miss Saunders said of her administrators.

She claimed her defense of workers with grievances led to her involuntary transfer in March 1975 to the Department of Administrative Services where she found herself without an office, telephone or work.

Four months later she was laid off for allegedly neglecting her duties. "How could I neglect my duties when I didn't have any," she replied.

With the help of a lawyer, she won reinstatement on Feb. 2 to her old position in the natural resources department. But even though she recovered her title and salary, she lost her responsibilities since someone else was hired to handle workers' complaints.

"Now they don't know what to do with me. That's why I am doing nothing," said Miss Saunders. She said she occupies a stark office with a phone that seldom rings, and when it does, it most likely is a worker venting frustrations.

"I advise them of their rights, but no one files complaints anymore. If someone files a complaint, they're fired," said Miss Saunders.

Traffic Court

A Greenfield man was found guilty of three traffic violations during Monday's Washington C.H. Municipal Court proceedings. Judge Robert L. Simpson also found a South Solon man innocent of a reckless operation charge.

Jerry M. Purdin, 27, of Greenfield, was fined $50 for reckless operation, and had his driver's license suspended for 10 days. For fleeing a police officer, he was fined $100 with $50 suspended providing he remain on good behavior for one year. He was fined $35 for speeding.

Kristen B. Simmerman, 27, of South Solon, was found not guilty of reckless operation due to the fact that the prosecuting witness who had issued a private warrant, did not appear.

A Springfield man, Learnin Noble, 29, was fined $250 and sentenced to three days in jail for driving while intoxicated. He also had his driver's license suspended for 30 days.

Deborah K. Yahn, 18, of Jeffersonville, received a fine of $35 for failing to stop for a school bus stopped.

Judge Simpson also found seven other people guilty of various traffic offenses, most of them being six for excessive speed.

Paul J. Mitchell, 23, of 901 Washington Ave. was fined $45 for speeding; Robert G. Curtis, 39, of 1119 Washington Ave., $35 for speeding; Ira

Paul J. Mitchell, 23, of 901 Washington Ave., $45 for speeding; Kenneth J. Roland, 31, of Cincinnati, $25 for speeding; Lloyd E. Burlile, 37, of Bloomingburg, $25 for red light violation; Colon E. Beatty, 37, of Greenfield, $25 for speeding.

Judge gets alternate school plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A new desegregation plan for Dayton schools that would not force students to change schools in the middle of the year has been presented to a federal judge here.

The proposal by the Dayton school administration was the main issue at the first day of public hearings Monday before U.S. District Judge Carl B. Rubin. Hearings were called to consider a plan written by Dr. John A. Finger Jr., who was appointed by the court in connection with its order to Dayton schools to desegregate.

The new plan is similar to Finger's in most elements. It proposes student transfers that would pair the same schools and redraws attendance lines.

The school officials eliminated freedom of enrollment and the mid-year transfer of students and teachers as called for in Finger's plan.

Under the administration's plan students would know before June which school they would attend in September.

The five key recommendations of the administration's plan are:

—That the burden of pupil assignments be the responsibility of the administration and not principals and teachers as Finger outlined.

—That parents and students know this spring which school students will be attending in September. Under Finger's plan students could be assigned to schools this summer or during the first week of school in September.

—That students will not change school at the end of the autumn-winter semester and teachers would not change buildings.

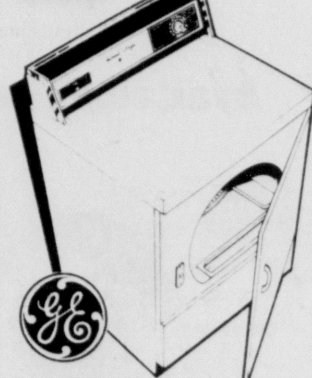

—That geographic zones be established for high schools rather than random selection of students. This process would eliminate freedom of enrollment for ninth and 10th graders. Eleventh and 12th graders would still be allowed to go to the school of their choice. The new plan would still pair four high schools, Belmont with Dunbar and Roth with Wilbur Wright.

—That three attendance zones be established for desegregating elementary schools.

Southern State sets spring class deadline

This is the last week for regular enrollment in spring quarter classes at Southern State College. Spring quarter classes will begin at both Southern State campuses on Monday, March 29. Late enrollment will continue through April 2.

Southern State College, with campuses in Wilmington and Macon, offers two-year associate degree programs in general education and twelve technical fields. Although programs are usually terminal, most courses can be transferred if a student decides to pursue a four-year baccalaureate degree after graduating from Southern State.

C. Wayne Jones, director of technical education, said that among the most popular technologies during Southern State's first year have been three business-related programs, business management, accounting, and executive secretarial. He attributed their popularity to the great demand for persons with skills and training in these areas to fill related jobs in the community.

Jones said these three programs focus on business skills and provide students with the opportunity to obtain a practical education which prepares them for rewarding careers whether they stay in the immediate area or move to a different part of the state or country.

He added that many persons already employed take courses at Southern State to improve their present skills or acquire new ones that will enable them to obtain promotions.

Students can begin a program of study during the spring quarter, and do not have to wait until fall to take basic courses. Southern State also features flexible scheduling with day and evening classes to accommodate students with limited transportation and those who want to work while attending college.

Persons interested in registering for spring or summer quarter classes at Southern State College should contact the admissions office at either campus. Phone the North Campus (Wilmington) at (513) 382-6645 or the South Campus (Macon) at (513) 695-4421.

WSHS band 'superior'

The Washington Senior High School Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Dennis Wollam, participated in the Ohio Music Education Association District Band 16 and Chorus Competition at Miami Trace High School last Saturday where they received a superior rating. The Washington

Concert Band was one of only three bands in this district to receive a superior rating.

In the competition the band performed three pieces for a panel of judges. They were judged on tone quality, intonation, expression and technical facility. Each judge writes his comments and rates the band on a scale of one through five. In addition to this, the band must sight-read a piece that it has never seen before. Here they are rated by a fourth judge.

The four scores are then averaged to determine the final rating.

State lobby discussed by Realtors

Because the association feels that no one really represents the homeowner in the state legislature, the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., maintains a political lobby.

The activities of this lobby was one of the topics discussed during the monthly meeting of the Fayette County Board of Realtors held Monday at the Terrace Lounge.

Charles A. Rice Jr., services director of the state association as well as District 5 vice president Zeke Wilson and his assistant Gary Thom offered the group a slide presentation showing some of the facilities and operations conducted by the association.

They noted that there are 37,000 Realtors serving some four million property owners in Ohio. They added that there are currently 120 bills in the state legislature which would directly or indirectly effect homeowners.

The state association of Realtors has the organization, program and facilities to represent and protect the homeowner, they said.

State official loses antenna

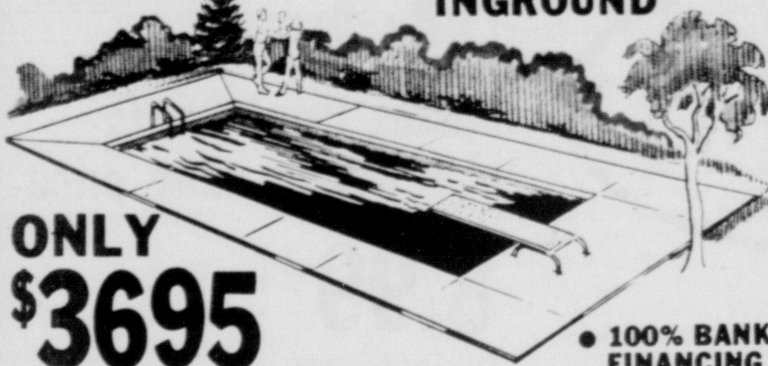

A radio antenna on a car belonging to the office of the Ohio Attorney General was reported stolen Monday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department stated that while the driver of the car was in the Garner's Union 76 Restaurant, located on U.S. 35 at I-71, the antenna was removed sometime between 3:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Monday.

General assembly to aid handicapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill of rights for the handicapped is scheduled for a vote in the House Tuesday as the General Assembly returns to the capital for the week.

The bill, approved 32-0 by the Senate last year, brings discrimination against the handicapped under present civil rights laws.

"But at the same time we've gone beyond that," said Sen. Harry Meshele, D-33 Youngstown, the bill's author. It includes restrictions against discrimination in credit, housing and insurance, among other areas.

"The bill in many areas addresses the need to make people aware of the needs of the handicapped," Meshele said. "The problem is a lot of people would not object if they only see it as a problem."

In its major provisions, the bill would:

—Require election boards to locate polling places in a barrier-free place by 1980.

—Require insurance companies to set fair standards for the handicapped. Meshele said some auto insurance companies charge handicapped drivers as "high risk" although national studies show them to have faster reaction time and lower accident rates.

—Require jobs and job training programs to be open to the handicapped as far as is practical.

"We just know from experience that there are literally thousands of positions around the state that the handicapped person can perform if he's given the opportunity," Meshele said.

He said the handicapped persons still would have to compete for the job, but could not be discriminated against on the basis of a handicap.

—Provide special vehicle license plates to the handicapped and some special parking privileges.

—Allow tax deductions to private industries which remove architectural barriers to the handicapped.

—Require housing projects receiving state financial aid to build a reasonable number of units usable by the handicapped.

"I don't know of any other bill in the nation that's close to it," Meshele said of the legislation.

Meshele said the bill does not try to create a privilege class, but instead tries to give the handicapped an equal opportunity.

Most people do not object to the provisions of the bill, he said, but simply would not think of making arrangements for the handicapped without a state law.

"They're the most visible people when they're present, but they're normally the least seen," Meshele said. "It's not because they don't want to be there, but because they can't get there."

If approved by the House Tuesday, the bill would return to the Senate for consideration of House amendments.

The House convenes at 11 a.m. Tuesday. The Senate meets at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

BURN, BABY, BURN — Obviously, the four gentlemen above are not radicals attempting to burn down a school. They are the co-signers of a $9,750 note executed 18 months ago to purchase new Miami Trace High School Band uniforms. Thoroughly enjoying the burning of the note which has been paid are (left to right) Phil Grover, Harold Thompson, Will Braun and Wilbur Rapp with the 'torch.'

School 'burning' provides enjoyment for boosters

The Miami Trace High School Band Boosters had a hot meeting Monday evening as they witnessed the burning of a bank note.

The note was $9,750 for new band uniforms jackets and hats. The debt was co-signed by Phil Grover, band booster president, Harold H. Thompson, Will Braun, and Wilbur Rapp and they were all on hand to watch the note go up in flames.

In September of 1974, the boosters okayed the purchase of 135 new jackets and hats for the MTHS band members for use in the 1974-75 school year.

The deficit of $9,750 was paid off in 18 months due to the efforts of the band members, themselves. They have raised money through projects such as candy sales, pecan sales, and the annual ham and turkey dinner over the past year-and-a-half to raise the needed funds.

The debt was finally paid last Saturday and several members of the booster club were on hand last night to watch the symbolic destruction of it.

Taft seeks re-election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Incumbent Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. officially became a candidate for re-election today by filing petitions with the secretary of state.

Taft filed petitions with 50,000 signatures supporting his candidacy and paid a $50 filing fee.

He became the third candidate to file for the post as a Thursday deadline approached.

Others who have filed so far include former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, a Democrat, and Dr. Emma Lila Fundaburk, an independent.

James V. Stanton, a Cleveland congressman, is expected to file later this week for the Democratic nomination, as is James Nolan, a Cleveland nursing home operator.

While filing this morning, Taft said he expects no primary election opposition and is prepared to spend $1.3 million on his general election campaign.

Byrd named all-Ohio special mention

SCOL stars garner honors

COLUMBUS (AP) — Washington C.H.'s Chuck Byrd was among the list of South Central Ohio League cage stars named to the all-Ohio Class AA basketball team by the Associated Press today.

Joining the Blue Lion guard, who was a special mention choice, was Circleville's Biff Bumgarner, Greenfield

McClain's Steve Harvey and Hillsboro's Rick Seeling. Bumgarner was a second-team choice while Harvey garnered third-team honors. Seeling was named on the honorable mention list.

Conspicuously absent from the all-Ohio team was Circleville's George Moore, who was an all-district choice.

All four SCOL cagers named were seniors. Jim Arnzen, the clever guard for top-ranked Delphos St. John who plays for his dad, was hailed as the class AA high school basketball player of the year. Bobby Dawson, who has led Wellsville to two undefeated regular seasons in the last three, was named

The AP's Class AA State Coach of the Year, based on recommendations by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Arnzen, a 6-foot senior who is a major college prospect because of his all-around play, helped his dad, Bob Arnzen, coach St. John to its first unbeaten regular season and the No. 1 state ranking.

The younger Arnzen averaged almost 16 points, shot 50 per cent from the floor and came up with eight assists and nine steals and interceptions per game. His quick hands keyed the Blue Jays' pressure defense.

Dawson, a Bowling Green State University graduate, has turned out a 52-1 mark in his last three regular seasons at Wellsville, including 16-0 this winter. His nine years with the Tigers has produced a 159-29 mark including six straight sectional tournament crowns.

Dawson edged Jim Lawhead of Lorain Catholic, Mike Hughes of Wheelersburg and the older Arnzen for the coaching laurels.

The younger Arnzen won the No. 1 player award from fellow first-team All-Ohioans Tom Volarich of Brookfield, Ron Wilczak of Lorain Catholic and Mike Moyer of 1975 state tournament winner Warsaw River View.

Volarich, a 6-1 senior, averaged 21 points, 6-6 senior Wilczak 18.3 points and Moyer, another 6-1 senior, 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Also on the first unit were 6-3 Pat Tabler of Cincinnati McNicholas, 6-4 Jeff Bentley of Ironton and 6-2 Jeff Lambert of Swanton. All are seniors.

Second-team selections were 5-11 Biff Bumgarner of Circleville, 6-6 Marquis Miller of Columbus St. Charles, 6-6 Scott Spencer of Rossford, 6-3 Joe Rase of Wheelersburg, 6-1 Eddie Crowe of Carlisle, 6-4 Mike Wright of Wellsville, 6-foot Rocco Morro of Louisville Aquinas and 6-2 Bill Dodd of Oberlin Firelands.

All are seniors except Miller, a junior.

On the third team were 6-4 Dale Shepherd of St. Clairsville, 6-2 Brian Gibson of Cincinnati Greenhills, 6-2 Alan Watson of Urbana, 6-3 Steve Harvey of Greenfield McClain, 6-5 Tom Barringer of Bloomdale Elmwood, 6-1 Brian Agler of Marion Elgin, 6-1 Jerome Underwood of Girard and 6-foot Bob Lowrie of Cleveland Latin.

It's an all-senior third team except for juniors Barringer and Lowrie.

Ted Turner with Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — "The team won't be sold again in my lifetime ... unless we go down the drain," said Ted Turner, the colorful millionaire communications executive who purchased the Atlanta Braves' baseball team.

Turner, a 37-year-old internationally known yachtsman, said he first thought of purchasing the National League team only last summer. But he took charge pledging to bring this sports success-starved city a professional championship.

"Getting into the World Series in five years is my objective," he said. "But it takes time to build a winning baseball team. Time, money and effort."

The purchase price wasn't disclosed, but there were reports that it was in the $10 to $12 million range, to be paid off over a 12-year period.

The club had been owned by the Atlanta-LaSalle Corporation, with most of the principals involved in the baseball operation residing in Chicago.

Turner will succeed Dan Donahue as president of the club, but Donahue will remain on the board of directors and Bill Bartholomay, one of the previous owners, will retain his position as Braves chairman.

Turner said he planned few changes, but one he hopes to arrange within a year involves the team nickname. He wants to change it to the Eagles to place it in line with other Atlanta pro teams such as the basketball Hawks and football Falcons.

This could be Royals' year...

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — After finishing second to Oakland last year in the American League West, the Kansas City Royals went shopping for some right-handed batting muscle.

They had no luck. But that could be their only weak spot. There are compelling indications that this could be the Royals' year.

Last year's club won 91 games, a total exceeded only by the four division winners.

The infield is stocked with potential superstars at first and third. Overall, there is more depth. The pitching corps, while not without question marks, appears more promising than ever.

Manager Whitey Herzog feels the Royals should open the 1976 season stronger than in 1975 for two reasons.

"First of all, we will open the season with a stronger pitching staff," he says. "Secondly, I know a lot more about my players, and they know what I expect."

Herzog was hired July 24 from the staff of the California Angels to replace the fired Jack McKeon, and the team immediately perked up.

During his 76-game tenure the Royals went 41-25, fattening the team batting average 13 points to .267, lowering the earned run average from 3.75 to 3.06.

The pitching ace is Steve Busby. The stylish right-hander who crafted no-hitters in 1973 and '74 was sailing along toward a second straight 20-plus season when a line drive popped him on the pitching elbow.

He missed two turns and finished 18-12, but is thought to have regained top form.

The other three starters are Dennis Leonard, hard-throwing right-hander who had a sensational rookie year, Paul Splittorff, the lone left-hander, who rebounded well from a miserable beginning in 1975, and Al Fitzmorris, a sinker-balling veteran.

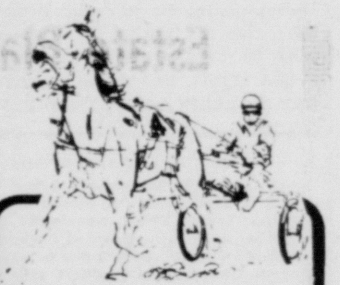

Doug Bird, who has anchored the bullpen for several seasons, is expected to be worked into the starting rotation "maybe by the middle of May."

Veteran right-hander Marty Pattin proved he could be the main fireman last season, and is expected to get plenty of help from lefties Ray Sadecki and Steve Mingori.

John Mayberry returns at first base with a five-year million-dollar contract in his pocket. The powerful left-hander posted a .291 batting average last year and set club records for home runs, 34, RBI, 106, total bases, 303, and slugging average, .547.

Herzog says he wouldn't trade 22-year-old George Brett for any other third baseman in baseball.

The husky Brett, who throws right and bats left, led the league in hits with 195 while batting .308. The brother of New York Yankee pitcher Ken Brett, he possesses wide range, quick hands and a howitzer arm.

Bartow adopts Wooden philosophy for Hoosiers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Bartow is using some John Wooden philosophy as he prepares the UCLA Bruins for their rematch with Indiana in the NCAA basketball championships.

Wooden, who coached the Bruins to an incredible 10 national titles in 12 seasons, always stressed having his teams play their own style and not worry about the opponent.

But Bartow admits he took a far different approach when the Bruins opened the season against Indiana last November, a game the top-ranked Hoosiers won easily 84-64.

"I've usually never been caught up in what an opponent does," said Bartow, "but that was my first game as UCLA's coach and, as I've said, I overprepared my team and put too much pressure on them."

Some UCLA players said after that game that they knew Indiana's plays better than their own.

This Saturday at the Spectrum in Philadelphia when the Hoosiers and Bruins meet in the NCAA semifinals, Bartow will have a different outlook.

"We're going to emphasize what UCLA can do, not what Indiana does," Bartow said Monday.

"And if we play the way we're capable of playing ... I think we're going to win."

As for UCLA's practices this week, Bartow said, "We'll walk through Indiana's offense for about 10 minutes this Thursday. I think we spent about 10 hours on it the last time."

The "do it our way" style has been more apparent at UCLA since mid-season when the Bruins knocked off Washington and Washington State in a pair of key games that put UCLA on top of the Pacific-8 Conference for keeps after an early-season battle.

Bartow still looks back at that first game with Indiana, however.

Scarlet Knights still unbeaten

Rutgers gaining respect

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — It seems now that the Rutgers basketball team can play ball with the rest of the country. Better than most, in fact.

Criticized for a "soft" eastern schedule, the Scarlet Knights have climbed to the summit of the NCAA playoffs, the glamorous final four in Philadelphia this weekend.

They jumped over some pretty good teams to do it, too.

"We've blown most people out, so everybody's saying the schedule's easy," says Coach Tom Young. "They say it even though we've played every team in the East that has anything. We have to play the best in our area — and we do that."

"We can't play a Midwestern schedule. We can't play an Atlantic Coast Conference schedule. We're being criticized for our schedule only because they're comparing us with the other teams in the Top Ten. But that says a lot for our program when they start comparing us with those teams."

After winning their first 10 games, the Scarlet Knights received recognition as a Top Twenty team. When they continued to go unbeaten, they leaped into the Top Ten and finally, after finishing the regular season without a loss, wound up No. 4.

Now they're shooting for the NCAA moon.

"Playing in the final four is a dream that very few players or coaches realize in their lifetimes," says Young, "and we are there. There is no doubt that we are not as physical as Indiana and UCLA, but I don't think that they will be as quick as we are."

Rutgers may get a chance to play either Indiana or UCLA in Monday night's finals, but before then will have to beat Michigan in Saturday's semifinals at the Spectrum. Ironically, the Wolverines have a strikingly similar style of play.

"They have a freshman center (Phil Hubbard) just like we do (Jim Bailey)," points out Young, "and they have a great point guard in Rickey Green, just like our Ed Jordan. And Michigan likes to run, just like we do."

"I've heard that Michigan is a more physical team than ours, but I don't think that's necessarily true. They let them play a more physical brand of ball in the Big Ten and that may not be true in Philadelphia."

Fayette Bible heads church tourney

Fayette Bible moved into the finals of the winners' bracket in the Community Education Sponsored Church League tournament.

Behind the scoring of Gary Shaffer, Fayette Bible downed Good Shepherd Lutheran, the regular season champs, 83-77 Monday night.

The loss dropped Good Shepherd into the losers' bracket finals with Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The tournament's final game will be held Thursday.

Caesarean Section Not Dangerous

Is it an added risk if a baby is born by Caesarean section? I still have three months to go and I could use the added assurance that your columns seem to offer.

Mrs. M.S.D., Wash., D.C.
Dear Mrs. D.:
Let me immediately assure you that the risk to the baby and to you is not increased by the need for Caesarean delivery.

It is estimated that about four women in every hundred will have their babies delivered by Caesarean section. The removal of a child through an abdominal incision rather than through the vaginal canal has been safely performed for many years.

The reason that the risk is so slight is because of the added safety of anesthesia, the greater skill in surgery, and the use of post-operative antibiotics to prevent infection.

Years ago, such an operation caused a great deal of concern to the wife and husband when first they were told that a Caesarean operation was necessary. There are many excellent university hospitals that perform Caesarean operations with greater regularity when the position of the child is unusual. Normally the head presents itself first. When the buttocks (breech) presents itself, Caesarean section may be the procedure of choice.

Whenever there is a disproportion between the size of the baby's head and the mother's pelvic bones, the operation is performed. It is also important for you to know that your decision to have more children should not be affected by this kind of delivery.

My daughter constantly plays with the inside of her mouth. She chews on it and sometimes makes it bleed. I worry that a cancer will develop.

Mrs. H.O., Okla.

Dear Mrs. O.:

Persistent injury caused by biting can produce ulceration in the mucous membrane lining of the mouth. I do not believe that cancer formation is, at the present time, your greatest problem. It is true that such repeated injury may in later life be the seat of cellular changes. Yet your present objective should be to find out why your daughter persists in this habit.

It must be obvious to you that this represents some psychological need. It is evidently a "nervous habit" that might be analogous to a tic of the eyes, nail-biting or constant picking of the face.

Persistent nagging and pressure to desist are not the answer to her problem. With kindness, patience, understanding and perhaps support from one who is psychologically trained, the habit will stop. More important than stopping the habit is to help her find release from the emotional tensions that are responsible.

In Focus

by

Charlie Pensyl

One of the biggest snow jobs we see today is this pollution farce. The con starts with the implication that "every day, in every way, we get more and more polluted." But the facts show that the reverse is true. Government figures show that practically every city in the United States shows a steady fall in air pollution from 1933 to the present. We are told that we are in danger of a depletion of the oxygen supply. Fact is that carbon monoxide will kill us all, unlimited. If ALL the organic material on earth were oxidized it would reduce the atmospheric concentration of oxygen by less than 1 per cent. We hear that carbon monoxide will kill us all. Sure, this gas is toxic, and each year man adds 270 million tons to the air. But in all the years our automobiles have been adding this toxic gas to our atmosphere the concentration hasn't increased one bit, nor will it. And there's a good reason: Nature has a balancing system that keeps the level. But if the CO level in Los Angeles (and that's about as high as you'll get) bugs you, think of the CO content of cigarette smoke that will run about a thousand times higher. So who's kidding whom?

The "thermal pollution" con bugs me more than the others. There's nothing that man has devised that can hold a candle to the sun for raising the temperature of our lakes and streams. And you get the character who proudly displays the bumper sticker, BAN DDT. Well, Nobel Prize winner Dr. Norman Borlaug has stated: "If DDT is banned by the United States, I have wasted my life's work. I have dedicated myself to finding better methods of feeding the world's starving population. Without DDT and other important agricultural chemicals, our goals are simply unattainable."

Yes, friend, you've been had by some of the slickest con artists in the business. Why? Simple. What's behind every con? Money. If you want to chase down this hanky-panky, start by reading THE EIGHT SURPRISES, by John J. McKetta, Department of Chemical Engineering, University of Texas. As Chairman of the National Air Quality Commission he speaks with authority. And if this pamphlet interests you, go on and read THE ROCKEFELLER FILE by Gary Allen. Sure, we have both publications in our book department.

Opening lead - four of spades.

The opening lead often makes or breaks a contract, and we can all testify to this from bitter experience. There is nothing more consistently difficult in bridge than finding the most effective opening lead, but that doesn't mean the task is altogether hopeless.

One can frequently deduce, either from the bidding or from one's hand, which card will probably be the best opening shot. There may not be a feeling of 100 per cent confidence in the final choice, but that is not necessary when the evidence clearly points in one direction.

Consider this deal where West, after ruling out a diamond or club lead, elected to lead his stronger major. Declarer won the spade lead with the king and quickly ran off nine tricks to score 600 points.

Had West led a heart, he would have defeated the contract five tricks — 500 points! East would win the heart with the jack, shift to the queen of spades, and declarer would wind up losing the first nine tricks instead of winning them.

Of course, it is easy enough — looking at all four hands — to see that the heart lead is right. But the fact is that the heart lead is demonstrably best without seeing all the hands. West can reason that on the bidding South has either the king of spades or the Q-J-x, and that a spade lead is apt to help declarer more than hurt him.

Conversely — again judging from the bidding — a heart lead is likely to find East with heart honors sitting over North's heart honors, and hence is the more attractive lead. All the evidence indicates that a heart lead is the winner, but West allowed himself to be influenced unduly by his greater spade strength.

Hula sways Kiwanis opinion of Hawaii

The high spot of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting held Monday, was Miss Susan Bailey's attempts to teach seven club members the hula dance.

The hula instruction was the finale to a presentation by Miss Bailey held in the Terrace Lounge, concerning various aspects of Hawaiian culture.

Miss Bailey, who was born in Honolulu and spent many years there, explained that although the population is mainly of Japanese extraction, the islands are considered a melting pot of nationalities. According to Miss Bailey, the first written Hawaiian language was introduced by missionaries, with the alphabet containing only 12 letters.

Among the articles that Miss Bailey exhibited was tapa cloth, made from the mulberry tree and used as tapestry, and the well-known lei, made from a bean plant as well as flowers.

The special program was concluded by Miss Bailey's demonstration of the traditional hula dance in native costume. Seven club members also attempted the traditional dance.

Tom LeVan, co-chairman of the "Teen Talent Show" announced that 34 applications have been submitted, and that auditions are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Middle School auditorium.

George Gibbs introduced Richard Kilian to the club. Kilian was voted honorary membership by the board of directors in recognition of his past leadership and contribution to the club in its early years.

Kiwanis Club 17-year pins were conferred upon Louie Kuhlwein, and Bob Parrett.

Ohio Bell's commercial manager Susan Link was the club's guest for the dinner and program.

LEGAL NOTICE REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FISCAL YEAR 1977

COMPREHENSIVE MANPOWER PROGRAMS
Notice is hereby given that the Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 6, is requesting proposals for FY-77 Manpower Programs. Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services lead to maximum employment opportunities. Economically disadvantaged persons have been chosen as the primary priority group for the RMSC plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of household; youth in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled, older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans (within each of the above groups). The Council has established the following goals for FY-77: 1) to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; 2) continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disregarded by the mainstream of jobs in this region, in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; 3) emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 6. Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. Geographic area to be served is RMSC 6: Clinton; Fairfield; Fayette; Madison; Pickaway; and, Union Counties. Applications may be obtained from your county's Community Action Program office. Further information may be obtained from the CAP office. From John Borrowman, RMSC 6 Chairman at (513) 382-8345, or from Barbara Thall, RMSC 6 Field Representative at (614) 466-8428 or 1-800-782-1050 (toll free). Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, Planning Coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St., 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976. Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request. March 22-23-24

Car tours roadside, driver cited

After traveling 225 feet on and off U.S. 35, a Washington C.H. man's car finally came to rest in a ditch on the side of the roadway.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that Fred Brown, 19, of 2532 Ohio 41-S, went off the right side of U.S. 35 near Ford Road at 8:20 a.m. Monday.

The car struck some fence, and then continued 90 feet on the right side before coming back on the roadway and traveling 105 feet. The car went off the right side again, proceeding 30 feet before striking more fence and stopping in a ditch. There was slight damage to Brown's car, and he was cited for failing to drive on the right half of the roadway.

Krista J. Overly, 16, of 3491 Old Springfield Rd., made a left turn off the Bogus Road in Union township into a private drive, and struck a parked car belonging to Charles L. Campbell, 45, of 1251 Bogus Rd. The impact caused Campbell's car to be pushed forward, and it bumped his garage and house in the process. The 6 p.m. Monday accident resulted in slight damage to Miss Overly's car and moderate damage to Campbell's vehicle. There was no damage to the house.

Washington C.H. police officers reported that a 6:49 a.m. Monday collision at the intersection of Temple and North Streets was the result of red light violations. Benjamin J. Kinnison, 52, of Jeffersonville claimed that as he was traveling south on North Street and approaching The Temple Street intersection, a car driven by Mander Boggs, 62, of Rt. 3 Bush Road, ran a red light and a collision ensued. Boggs, who was traveling east on Temple Street, claimed Kinnison ran a red light. There was severe damage to Kinnison's car, and moderate damage to Boggs'.

Max E. Bobst, 22, of 757 Staunton Jasper Rd., reportedly struck in the rear a car driven by Timothy A. Stout, 16, of Chillicothe, who had stopped to make a left turn from Court Street onto North Street at 6:47 p.m. Monday. Stout's car incurred moderate damage, while Bobst, whose car was severely damaged, was cited by police officers for failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

A 7:42 a.m. Monday collision occurred at the corner of Gregg and North Streets, and police officers said that due to the nature and position of the debris after the accident, Daniel E. Armbrust, 29, of 517 Gregg St., had been traveling left of center. Armbrust was in the process of turning left from Gregg Street onto North Street when he collided with a car driven by Lisa J. Roberds, 18, of 924 Lakeview Ave. There was slight damage to both cars.

Loans, contracts signed

Last-minute ordinance creates village hassle

BY PHIL LEWIS

BLOOMINGBURG — With contracts signed and loans approved, construction on the Bloomingburg sewage plant and water system should begin within 10 days. In connection with the long-awaited project, a proposed ordinance by the village council could produce hard feelings between village officials, however.

Council met in special session Friday at the request of councilman Charles Hunt Jr. to discuss a proposed ordinance that would allow the village to take over the streets of a trailer park he once owned. Council voted to accept the ordinance.

Mayor Max Grim, who was not present at Friday's meeting and who claimed he was not officially notified of the special session, reportedly will not sign the ordinance which has not yet been written.

Hunt, who claims the mayor was asked to come to the meeting, but refused, said council does not need the mayor's signature to pass the law. He said the entire council agreed to pass the ordinance and "there is no doubt in my mind that council will not go back on their word."

The proposed ordinance would run sewage lines through the trailer park at the village's expense rather than along side the park as plans had originally stated.

Such a move would save trailer park residents tap-in fees, but engineers told council that it would add $49,000 to the sewage system cost for the village. The additional cost would add 89 cents per month to each of the village residents' sewage bill for the next 30 years.

Hunt said the ordinance had to be approved by council before he would vote to accept the sewage proposal. That vote came Monday morning. Hunt was present and voted yes.

Hunt claims that the proposed sewage lines would pass through 24 acres of private property, and he saw no reason why it couldn't pass through the trailer park also. "They pay taxes too," Hunt said.

The trailer park was formerly owned by Hunt, but now it belongs to a bank, State Savings in Grove City because of foreclosure action against the prior owners. Hunt said he has no plans to attempt to repurchase the park.

GROUND BREAKING — Bloomington Mayor Max E. Grim wields the shovel at the village's groundbreaking ceremony Monday following finalization of plans for a new sewage plant and water system. Dirt may not be the only thing broken as a rift between village officials has been widening over a proposed ordinance that would give the village control of a trailer park's street system. Also pictured at the ceremony are (left to right) Harry Woodfork, acting president of the board of public affairs; Ronald Brown, council president and Daniel Thompson, councilman.

Special assistant to the mayor, Robert Grim, said a large number of village residents were in attendance at the meeting, and they left with the impression that the ordinance would go into effect. But, Grim said, the mayor had no intention of signing the ordinance and making it law.

He added that state laws may be violated if such an ordinance is enacted.

Hunt stated that he asked village solicitor Wilbur Seifried if the ordinance was legal and Seifried had said it was.

All the legal paper work was completed Monday for the construction of the $1 million sewage and water improvement projects, but final plans will not be known until Friday when the proposed ordinance is discussed at the council's next meeting. That meeting is slated for April 6.

Japanese pilot crashes bribe figure's house

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese movie actor-pilot in a World War II Kamikaze pilot's uniform he donned for publicity pictures crashed in a light plane today into the home of Yoshio Kodama, key figure in the Lockheed payoff scandal in Japan.

The actor, Mitsuyasu Maeno, 29, was killed in the crash. Kodama's luxurious home was set afire, but he and 11 other persons in the house were not injured.

Police said Maeno almost certainly crashed intentionally because he cut his engine and aimed the plane into Kodama's house. But they said it was not clear whether the young man hoped to kill Kodama or was bent only on his own suicide.

Police said they were trying to determine whether the crash was deliberate or accidental.

Maeno was flying a single-engine plane with a cameraman in another plane taking pictures of him to promote a movie he was planning to make, an official of the Nikkatsu Movie Corp. said.

The actor was wearing a World War II-type flying cap and goggles, a Rising Sun headband and a white scarf for his flying jacket, the outfit worn by the Kamikaze suicide pilots who crashed their planes into American warships in the closing months of the war. And like them, Maeno shouted "Tenno Heika Banzai!" (Long Live the Emperor!) just before taking off.

But a spokesman for the Taiheiyō Flying Club, to which Maeno belonged, said this did not mean the actor was embarking on a suicide mission since he was posing for the cameraman.

Kodama, 65, is bedridden from the effects of a stroke two years ago. He was charged with tax evasion after a U.S. Senate subcommittee was told he was paid $7 million to promote the sale of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. planes in Japan. A right-wing businessman, he has been a behind-the-scenes power in the ruling Liberal-Democratic party.

Maeno took off from Chofu airport, 20 miles west of Tokyo. He flew around for an hour and a half being photographed from another plane, then reported by radio that he planned to fly over Setagaya where Kodama lived.

There was speculation that Maeno crashed while sightseeing. But Kantaro Hamada, 45, a cartoonist who lives near Kodama, said he watched the plane through binoculars as it circled overhead and that the pilot appeared to cut the engine.

"It looked like a Kamikaze crash," said Hamada.

The plane crashed into a second-floor veranda of Kodama's house, starting a fire that spread to the first floor and burned for an hour before it was brought under control. Police said Kodama's secretary moved him from the living room to another room of the house.

The Lockheed payoffs to Kodama

and others in Japan have become a major scandal, and on Sunday several hundred persons demonstrated outside Kodama's house. The house is guarded by scores of young toughs from the rightist Youth Ideological Research Organization which he organized and finances.

There were new developments also in the Lockheed scandal in Italy. Gen. Duilio Fanali, the chief of the Italian air force from 1968 to 1970, and Antonio d'Ovidio Lefebvre, a Rome attorney who was Lockheed's Italian agent, were arrested in connection with a reported $1.6 million payoff for the sale of 14 C130 Hercules planes in 1970.

Fanali was charged with complicity in the purchase of the planes and acquiring illegal income while in government office, an offense punishable by 4 to 12 years in jail. He has denied receiving any payoff and said in previous testimony that the Lockheed planes were far superior to others considered and were chosen for that reason.

Lefebvre was charged with complicity. His brother, also an attorney in Rome, has been accused in the case and is believed to have fled the country along with two other prominent Romans for whom arrest warrants have been issued in connection with the scandal. Another attorney, Vittorio Antonelli, has been arrested on a charge of giving false testimony.

High court again faces abortion law challenges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, hearing arguments in three abortion-related cases, is again considering what states may do to restrict a woman's access to abortion.

The cases being argued today before the court stem from its 1973 decision that a woman has a constitutional right to an abortion in the early stages of pregnancy, in consultation with her physician.

The hours of arguments were scheduled in cases involving:

—A Massachusetts law requiring consent of both parents before an abortion could be performed on an unmarried girl under the age of 18, subject to veto by a judge. The law was held invalid by a three-judge U.S. District Court.

—A Missouri law requiring the written consent of a patient desiring an abortion, and of her husband if she is married and of one parent if she is single and under 18. A three-judge district court upheld the law.

—Another Missouri law denying Medicaid payments to women who choose to have abortions. That law was held to be unconstitutional by the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

The federal court in the Massachusetts case held that to require parental consent before an abortion could be performed on an unmarried girl under 18 violated "individual rights of the minor," which "outweigh the rights of the parents."

Francis X. Bellotti, the state's attorney general, said in appealing to the high court that "the nature of the decision to abort includes extraordinary emotional and psychological problems which may be alleviated by parental involvement."

The Missouri consent law also provides that if a live birth results following an intended abortion, the child becomes a ward of the state. It also prohibits the saline injection method of abortion after the first 12 weeks of pregnancy.

Those challenging the law say new

Supreme Court guidance is needed so that legislatures "will not continue cavalierly to pass legislation which violates the spirit, intent and meaning" of the 1973 decision.

The U.S. Catholic Conference filed a brief urging that the Missouri law be upheld.

In the case of the Missouri law denying Medicaid payments for abortions, two doctors who challenged the statute said the principle of public payments has been upheld in previous federal court cases.

John C. Danforth, the state attorney general, argued that "It is a much different thing to say that a doctor cannot be legally prosecuted for performing an abortion requested by a pregnant woman than to say, as states must subsidize the abortion process with public funds."

Danforth said Missouri's only alternatives would be to give up about $66 million yearly in federal Medicaid grants or abandon the program.

Senate won't endorse detente

DALLAS (AP) — Some tough talk from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the Senate's refusal to endorse detente indicate how sensitive the question of U.S.-Soviet relations is becoming this election year.

Kissinger, continuing his defense of the Ford administration's foreign policy, said here Monday that the United States and the Soviet Union are in a position of "rough equilibrium" and the administration will never allow the balance to be tipped against the United States by a Russian build-up, or by a one-sided or violated agreement.

He also sought to refute domestic critics of U.S. defense policies and said that allegations of Soviet superiority "sound remarkably like the 'missile gap' claims which aroused anxieties in 1960 only to dissolve suddenly a few weeks after the election."

As Kissinger was preparing to deliver his remarks here, the Senate declined to approve a resolution supporting detente as a process of easing tension with the Soviet Union. The resolution had been offered as a means of expressing the continuity of American foreign policy in the heated atmosphere of the current political campaign, but the Senate referred it to committee by a 54 to 31 vote.

Some senators later said the move showed there is growing doubt about how much detente is benefiting the United States.

However, some senators said another factor was that the resolution had been quickly introduced without any committee consideration. And some GOP senators declined to support it because they said it was an attempt to support President Ford against Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan's attacks on U.S. foreign policy.

In his speech, Kissinger also made these points:

—He repeated that the "United States will not accept further Cuban military interventions abroad," a statement that brought the only interruption for applause during his speech.

—He did not indicate what the United States would do if Cuba attempts to end white minority rule in Rhodesia through military means. However, he said the United States will not be lured into support for Rhodesia by U.S. opposition to "massive Soviet and Cuban military intervention" on the African continent.

He said the United States has "no stake in and will give no encouragement to illegal regimes" in southern Africa, an apparent reference to Rhodesia.

—In defending the Ford administration's foreign and defense policies, Kissinger said, "We must take care not to become so obsessed with power alone that we become a fortress America and neglect our ultimate political and moral responsibilities."

Many of his remarks were aimed clearly at Reagan and Democrats Henry Jackson and Jimmy Carter, all of whom have criticized Kissinger's conduct of foreign policy under President Ford.

Ohio rail plan approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Almost 900 miles of freight line track marked for abandonment would be salvaged through an infusion of federal money under Ohio's Conrail plan as approved by federal officials.

State Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson announced Monday that the Federal Railroad Administration had accepted the state plan, thus qualifying 885.5 miles of mostly light density track for federal subsidy. Jackson said 67.3 miles of track are expected to be purchased by the Norfolk and Western and Chessie rail lines, and another 124 miles definitely will be taken out of service.

Conrail, the federal plan for reorganization and revitalization of Penn Central and six other northeastern and midwestern lines, is scheduled to take effect April 1.

Conrail will actually take over 682 miles of the state's light density branch line track.

Even with the Conrail participation, the transportation chief said, beginning Coffee Break . .

WSHS BASKETBALL Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Tuesday) in the Washington Senior High School band room. This will be the final meeting of the year, and planning the basketball recognition banquet will top the agenda.

Although the group usually meets on Wednesdays, the team's participation in the district tournament caused last Wednesday's meeting to be canceled.

next month Ohio will have 549 miles less track line and 2,348 fewer car loadings.

"If Ohio is to have an integrated transportation system," Jackson said, "the railroads must be kept viable for the major role that all modes of transportation play in the state economy."

An earlier draft of the Ohio plan was criticized by one federal official who charged the state lacked rail expertise.

Jackson, who was angered by the official's remarks, said Monday his department would continue to work with the railroad administration in Washington on "refinement of the plan."

"We're very pleased the rail plan has been accepted and we look forward to working with the Ohio Rail Transportation Authority and the federal government," he said.

ORTA, the newly-created state rail authority, will take over implementation of the plan.

Democrat files for office

November race assured for clerk of courts

A Democrat, seeking office for the first time, has filed petitions for the position of Fayette County Clerk of Courts.

Elizabeth (Libby) Fletcher, 60, of 5770 CCC Highway-W, employed as a bookkeeper and clerk at Colonial Paint, 143 North Main St., for 20 years, decided after talking with clerks from other counties that she would give politics a try.

Married to William Fletcher, recently retired from the State Highway Department, Mrs. Fletcher said that she felt the post she will be seeking in the next election is a challenging position, but is confident that with hard work she can fulfill the requirements of the job.

Involved with the Fayette County Cancer Board for the past 15 years and a member of the Democratic Club and the Progressive School Board, Mrs. Fletcher is also a member and past president of the Child Conservation League (CCL) which, she explained, has been in existence in this area for over 30 years and seeks the betterment of children.

The mother of two children, Mrs. Wayne (Marcia) Baird, of Good Hope, and Jimmy E. Fletcher, of Denver, Colorado, Mrs. Fletcher, apparently will be facing Republican Mrs. Ann Marvin in November. Both are thus far unopposed in their respective parties.

Always interested in county projects, Mrs. Fletcher said that she decided it was time to try her hand at politicking.

The office is currently held by Mrs. Catherine Hyer, who has announced her retirement. She has served the county as clerk of courts for the past eight years.

MRS. DORA M. MURRAY — Services for Mrs. Dora Mae Stewart Murray, 76, of Arlington Court Convalescent Center, Columbus, were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Weir-Arend Chapel, Columbus, with the Rev. Leonard Confar officiating. Mrs. Murray, widow of Marshall C. Murray, died Friday.

Mrs. Murray, a retired teacher in the Upper Arlington and Grandview Heights school system was a life member of the Riverside Methodist Hospital Guild 30, Ohio State University Alumni Association, National, Ohio and Franklin County Retired Teacher's Association, Y.W.C.A., and the Ohio Historical Society.

Burial was made in Union Cemetery.

Shooting charges awaited

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet faces an April 8 court appearance and a possible charge of criminally negligent homicide in the shooting death of ski star Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond on Monday after a 22-minute court hearing on the death of Sabich, 31. He was killed Sunday evening when struck in the abdomen by a bullet fired from a handgun.

Her eyes red from crying, Miss Longet, 34, was read her rights and left the courthouse in this Rocky Mountain ski resort town with singer Andy Williams, her former husband.

Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said Miss Longet and her three children had been living with Sabich for the past two years. She first met the skier in 1972, after she was separated from Williams. The entertainers were divorced last September.

Elections panel now all but dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission, the government's experiment in changing the financial rules of politics, is all but dead today, stripped of its power to disburse millions of taxpayer dollars to presidential candidates and their parties.

The FEC, created to administer and enforce the 1974 campaign finance law that arose from the Watergate scandal, lost most of its powers at midnight Monday as Congress failed to meet a deadline for restructuring it in compliance with a Supreme Court order.

Congress had been told by the court to alter the FEC so that all members were appointed by the president or the commission would forfeit its power to disburse funds to presidential candidates and to the Democratic and Republican parties for their summer conventions.

The inaction of Congress also will restrict FEC authority to carry out the law's regulations on campaign contributions and expenditures.

Still, Senate leaders said they would continue to seek a compromise in an effort to force action on a bill to restructure the FEC.

Leaders of both parties held conferences Monday in an effort to reach a compromise and agreed to meet again today to look over a simplified bill staff aides were putting together overnight.

The Senate spent three days last week debating the legislation to restructure the commission and found itself at an impasse over additional provisions that would make major changes in the 1974 law.

"If we are going to get a bill, both sides will have to make concessions,"

Book by Israeli blasts Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new book by an Israeli diplomatic correspondent accuses Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger of bad faith in his Middle East negotiations.

Author Matti Golan accuses Kissinger of slowing down vital U.S. arms replacements to Israel during the 1973 war and of reneging last year on a promise to commit the United States to Israel's assistance should the Russians intervene militarily in the area.

Before last summer's Sinai settlement with Egypt, Golan claims, Kissinger agreed in a meeting with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz in the Virgin Islands that in case the Russians involved themselves in the Middle East "there would be active counter-involvement by the United States."

But, in the settlement itself, the commitment was worded so that the United States agreed only to "consult" with Israel. Kissinger later explained that he had not given enough thought to the likelihood of congressional objections to a broader pledge, Golan writes in "The Secret Conversations of Henry Kissinger."

Golan is a correspondent for the newspaper Haaretz. He also charges Kissinger with breaking a pledge after the war turned in Israel's favor to give Israeli forces a few days' time to secure their position on the west bank of the Suez Canal and misinforming Israel in 1974 that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had agreed to reopen the canal to shipping, including Israeli cargo, before another round of negotiations.

Asked for Kissinger's comment, a State Department spokesman said: "The secretary has not seen the book said Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Rules Committee.

But Senate leaders appeared doubtful that any major breakthrough would be forthcoming soon. GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin said, "We are a long way from any agreement."

The House has not yet even taken up legislation to comply with the Supreme Court's Jan. 30 ruling.

The 1974 law provided for tax funds to match private contributions of $250 or less raised by candidates in their primary campaigns.

Before its power ran out, the FEC disbursed $980,266 to presidential candidates Monday, bringing the total for the year to $12.62 million. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace got the largest share Monday, $339,603, and President Ford was second with $167,758.

and does not intend to read it. Every excerpt the secretary has seen from the book has been, in his view, either an egregious distortion, an outright lie, or so taken out of context that it amounts to a lie."

Golan's book initially was banned by Israeli censors but was cleared for publication with some revisions after government seizure of the manuscript became known publicly. It is being published this week in the United States by the Quadrangle Press.

Beside Kissinger, it criticizes Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin for a persistent impulse "to shoot off his mouth" and faults Dinitz for trusting Kissinger too much.

Israeli officials here said they would not comment because the book "is sensational and completely speculative."

Population growth worries U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation and unemployment may become permanent problems even for highly developed nations unless world population growth is reduced, says a new United Nations-financed study.

In reviewing 22 issues affected by population, the study concluded that "nearly all have one thing in common:

they can be expected to get much worse before they get better."

Rapid population growth, it said, is already straining the world's capacity to grow crops, catch fish, fight illness, provide housing and jobs, and fight off inflation and pollution.

The study was prepared by the Worldwatch Institute, a private non-profit research organization, with funding from the United Nations Fund for Population Activities.

Population growth is leading to increased urbanization, overgrazing of forage lands, destruction of forests, crowding and political conflict, and demands on energy, minerals and resources, the study said.

If unchecked, the report added, the problems brought on by high population could become so severe that they could be solved only at the cost of severe restraints on individual freedom.

Underdeveloped countries generally face the worst problems, with high rates of population growth and limited resources. But the report said rich industrialized countries like the United States are not immune.

Population growth, it said, was an important factor in what it described as a new kind of monetary inflation caused by an actual scarcity of resources that could not expand as fast as the population and its demands can and do.

"With four billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may grow chronic," it said.

"Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges that political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation simply may not be manageable."

U.S. population growth has already slowed down to the range of around 1 per cent a year, but the demand for resources per person has continued to increase rapidly, at around 3 per cent or more per year.

The situation is far worse in underdeveloped countries with higher population rates and a need for rapid increase of per capita incomes.

went to the House on a vote of 27-0, would end a discriminatory practice of longstanding against women who comprise "a full 40 per cent of Ohio's work force."

Objecting to House amendments, senators refused 26-0 to concur for passage of a Senate bill correcting a legislative error of two years ago and making it legal for children's tricycles

New beef standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has cleared the way for the use of a controversial new system for grading cuts of beef.

The court on Monday let stand a decision of the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis, which refused to issue an injunction to stop use of the new beef grading standards. The standards have been under court review for about a year.

The standards for beef went into effect on Feb. 23. They lowered the quality requirements for beef in the "choice" and "prime" grades.

The standards were challenged by a coalition of consumer groups, labor unions and the independent Meat Packers Association.

The standards, which basically would mean some leaner beef would qualify for "choice" and "prime" grades, have prompted some resistance from cattle feeders, who say they have lost money because of the changes.

Stock list sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's recent indecisive trend continued today, with prices mixed and trading sluggish.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks sank a fraction in the early going, but gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market had turned in mixed showings both last Friday and Monday, and analysts said investors seemed to be waiting for some new force to give it a push in one direction or the other.

Today's early prices included Schlumberger, unchanged at 75 1/4; Sperry Rand, up 1/2 at 47 3/4; S.S. Kresge, off 1/8 at 38 1/2, and City Investing, down 1/4 at 10.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average managed a 2.44 gain to 982.29.

Arrest man for murder of six persons

TREVOSE, Pa. (AP) — A 24-year-old neighbor has been arrested and charged with murder in the execution-style killing of six persons in a suburban home. Authorities said the slayings apparently stemmed from "a personal vendetta."

George Geschwendt, 24, was taken into custody Monday night at the Bensalem Township police station, said Police Chief Lawrence Michaels. He was charged with six counts of murder in connection with the killing of six persons at the Bucks County home of John Abt on March 12.

Michaels said Geschwendt is a bachelor and lives with his mother and a brother in a house directly across from the Abt family's home. He is being held without bail pending a preliminary hearing March 26, the chief said.

Michaels and Bucks County Dist. Atty. Kenneth Biehn would make no comment on the case except to say the killings apparently resulted from "a personal vendetta." They would not say what led them to Geschwendt, if a murder weapon was found or how Geschwendt came to be arrested.

They did say the killings were not drug-related, as had been suspected earlier in the investigation.

The bodies of Abt and his wife, Margaret, both about 50; three of their children, Margaret, 19, Cathy, 15, and John, 13; and Margie's boyfriend, Garson Engel, 20, were found in the basement of the suburban home about four miles from Philadelphia.

Police said the killings occurred between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. that Friday night.

Reagan casts eyes on Ohio

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is mounting a last-minute drive to enter Ohio's presidential primary, his Ohio representative, local businessman Peter Voss, says.

Voss, who confirmed the campaign in response to questions posed by the Akron Beacon Journal, said the decision was reached late Monday and that his credentials were flown from Washington late that same night. The Akron afternoon newspaper reported the decision in today's editions, crediting Reagan campaign sources for its initial word.

To make Thursday afternoon's filing deadline, Voss must gather 97 delegates and 1,500 signatures for petitions plus 150 signatures in each of the state's 23 congressional districts. "It is not the 11th hour, it's at least 11:35," Voss said today. "We're facing odds upon odds upon odds, but we might be able to do it."

"There is no sense looking at the negatives now," he added. "We must look at the positives."

Voss, an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination in 1974, said he had been contacted by a Reagan aide several weeks ago and then flew to Washington to talk with Reagan's campaign manager, John Sears, a few days after the New Hampshire primary but that nothing was settled at that time.

Magna Carta delegation

After a period of more arm twisting than soul searching, the House of Representatives has reversed itself and approved of sending a large congressional delegation to London to accept a copy of Magna Carta for Bicentennial display. It is a victory of sorts for Speaker Carl Albert, who for rather obscure reasons chose to make the matter a test of his influence.

The first time around the House voted down a plan to send 12 senators, 13 congressmen and their spouses and some staff people on the Magna Carta mission. The argument which prevailed was the sensible one that there was no need send so many for such a purpose, with a blank check for expenses.

Albert in effect ignored this point, arguing that failure to send a delegation would be a snub to the British. That was not in fact the issue: the issue was not whether a delegation should be sent, but how big it ought to be.

Albert nevertheless went to work, enlisting White House help, to push through the original plan. In the end he was successful, even to the extent of winning rejection of an attempt to place some limit on spending. Congress will send 25 members, plus spouses and staff, for a round of festivities related to the Magna Carta loan. We keep recalling California Rep. Glenn M. Anderson's comment on the floor that "since only three wise men were sent to honor the birth of Jesus Christ, the same number might be adequate to our purpose."

LOCAL VIEWPOINT...By George Malek

Heading for election boredom

Unless a number of local political candidates come bounding out of the woodwork during the last few days before the filing deadline, Fayette County voters are in for a very boring ballot June 8—at least candidatewise.

As of the closing of office hours Monday, only 12 persons (nine Republicans and three Democrats) had filed for the eight countywide offices to be filled in the November election. Only one office can boast a primary battle.

Although 19 persons had requested petitions, less than two-thirds have actually filed, and the deadline for all candidates is 4 p.m. Thursday. Unless a petition is filed by then, a candidate cannot appear on the ballot for the June primary election or the November general election.

The treasurer's seat being vacated by Harold A. Hise has seen three candidates file petitions for office. A primary contest between Republicans Jean Palmer and Ella May Belt is the only intra-party contest established to date.

Five county offices have only one candidate from either party. Incumbent Republican candidates have filed for the recorder, coroner, sheriff and one county commissioner's post. Republican Donald Conley is the only candidate thus far for county engineer. No one, including incumbent James Kiger, has filed petitions to become county prosecuting attorney.

In addition to the treasurer's post which also has one Democratic petitioner, only two other offices have established a November contest. One Republican and one Democrat have filed petitions for the Jan. 3 county commissioners seat as have one member of each party for the clerk of courts office.

At the precinct level, the situation is even worse. Each precinct is to have had one elected representative on the Central Committee of each party. Although there are 44 precincts in the county, only 10 Republicans and 21 Democrats have filed petitions of candidacy for precinct representative. There are no contested precinct races, and many precincts haven't generated enough political interest to attract a candidate from either party as yet.

The petitions for central committee require only five signatures, and neither party has attracted enough persons to fill its slate of 44 representatives even if everyone who has taken petitions should file before the Thursday deadline. Only 27 Republicans and 37 Democrats have even requested petitions.

Without a surge of last-minute candidates, it will be difficult to blame area voters if there is a poor turnout at the polls. There are no Democratic contests to attract voter interest, and only one Republican battle. The populas can hardly be blamed for not voting when they have only one choice on the ballot.

Outside of the state and national candidates, local tax issues offer the only apparent voter interest.

Washington C.H. residents will be voting on three property tax proposals presented by City Council. Appearing on the ballot will be a one-mill levy for police protection, one-mill for street lighting and three-tenths of a mill for the operation of Washington Cemetery.

Non-city residents don't have that much to look forward to. The only other local issues appearing are a two-tenths mill renewal levy for general operation of the Fayette County Board of Health, which is voted upon by both city and non-city voters. Union Township residents alone will vote on a .75-mill renewal of fire protection levy.

Party organizations have only 48 hours to drum out their candidates or present Fayette County voters with an acute case of primary ballot blahs.

Editor's mailbox

EDITOR, Record-Herald:

Schools are places to teach and learn and oft times, little recognition is given to the achievement in academics which should be the primary reason for attending school. Students in sports are always recognized at banquets and rightly so for their various accomplishments during the season. This is great, but what academics? True, we have honor rolls and honorable mentions. But banquets for academics—they are few and far between.

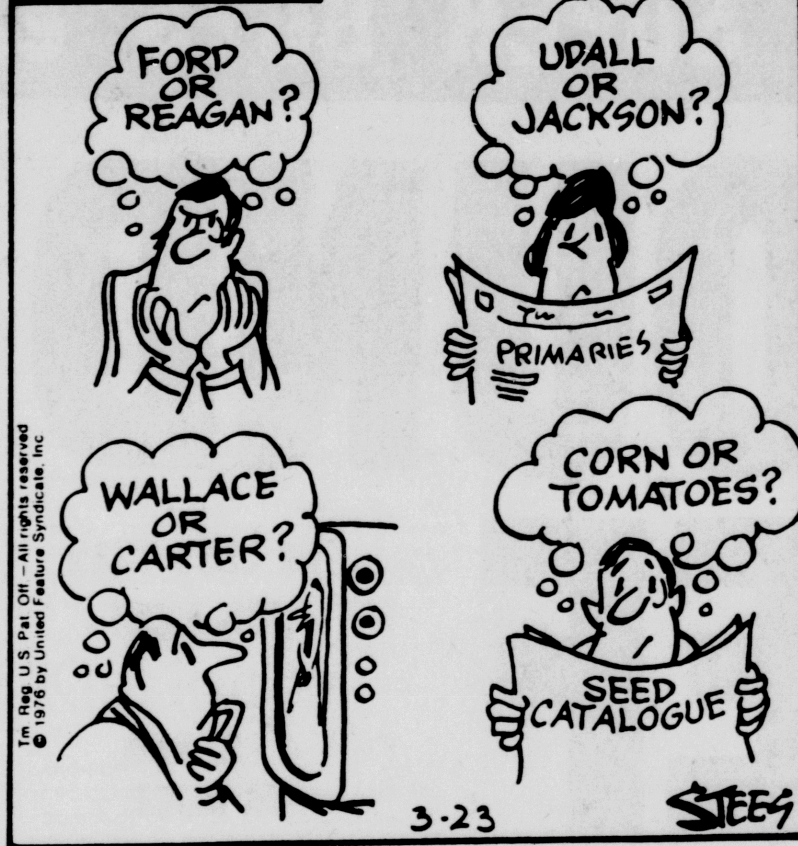

The Fayette County area can be proud of at least one group that feels academics is also important and spends nearly $1,000 each year to sponsor such a banquet. That group is the Fayette Area Bankers Association composed of the First National Bank of Washington C.H., the Huntington Bank, the First National Bank of New Holland, and the Fayette County Bank.

Four years ago, the Fayette Area Bankers took on the project of sponsoring the induction banquet for new members of the National Honor Society and their parents. This banquet combines both Miami Trace and Washington Senior High Schools and recognizes these students in areas of scholarship, leadership, service and character. The banquet is impressive and should be.

The Fayette Area Bankers are to be commended for such a fine project.

State priorities set

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Legislative leaders, vowing to wind up major business in the next few weeks, have narrowed their list of top priorities down to about a half dozen major issues.

Foremost among them, said House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, are bills that hold the promise of property tax relief and repeal the antiquated formula used by Ohio's utilities to justify need for rate increases.

Riffe also mentioned a pair of elections bills, needed by a March 25 deadline if they are to have any effect on the June primary, another measure permitting charitable bingo games, and an omnibus retirement bill which in its present form would grant retired members of the state's retirement system a small (from 1½ per cent to 3 per cent) cost of living increase, and make some changes in the way the systems operate.

"We plan to adjourn no later than the first of May," said Riffe, adding that the lawmakers probably then will come back in June to act on possible gubernatorial vetoes and complete any other remaining business.

The property tax measure, approved by the House but now stalled in a Senate Ways and Means subcommittee, would provide tax credits to real estate taxpayers to compensate for inflationary increases in the value of their property.

It is under attack by industries and corporations which would be excluded from the credits. Riffe said the measure could be freed through a compromise with the corporate taxpayers that would give them another long sought bill reducing the rate of their tangible personal property tax.

The utilities measure, repealing the highly publicized and embattled RCN (reconstruction cost new) formula, has been okayed by the Senate but has been widely amended in a House committee over strong objections of Senate sponsors.

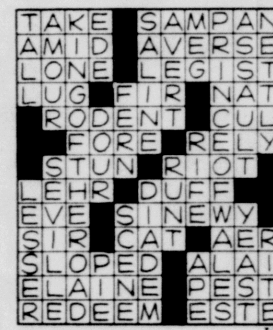

That measure replaces the formula, which lets net worth be calculated on the basis of what it would cost to replace plants and equipment at present market prices, with a new formula restricting such calculations to original costs. Senate-House differences are virtually certain to send the legislation to a joint conference committee.

Passed by one House and under study in opposite chambers are measures eliminating Ohio's bed sheet ballot in presidential election years, and carrying out an Ohio Supreme Court mandate for candidates' names to be rotated on ballots from precinct to precinct. The former now is being studied in the Senate while the rotation bill is awaiting action in the House.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Worn-out Romeo gets a tune-up

DEAR ABBY: I am 49. Joe is 50. I thought we had a pretty good 30-year marriage. Joe never was much of a Romeo, but that never was a problem as I was usually pretty pooped at the end of the day and I'm not exactly a sexpot myself.

Well, imagine the shock I got when a 30-year-old divorcee who works for Joe phones here in the middle of the night to tell him that she had taken 30 sleeping pills and to say goodbye, because she didn't want to live without him! (I was right next to him and heard every word she said.)

Joe jumped out of bed, threw some clothes on and was out of the house in three minutes. Meanwhile I sat there in a daze. Well, to make a long story short, Joe got her to a hospital, they pumped her stomach out and she lived.

Now he is trying to tell me that she is just a "kid" who had a crush on him—he saw her at her place a couple of times and that's all there was to it. She's still working for him, and Joe says since she's got two kids to support, he sees no reason for letting her go.

Now when he goes to Lodge on Mondays, bowls on Tuesdays and plays cards on Thursdays, I wonder where he REALLY is.

I offered him a divorce, and he said he wouldn't consider it. He insists he "loves" me. Of course I can't trust him anymore, but I don't know what to do. Can you help me?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Tell Joe that for the sake of your peace of mind you think the two of you should talk over the situation with a professional counselor. If he refuses to go-go without him.

DEAR ABBY: This is an S.O.S. I just received a letter from a friend saying that she was enclosing some money as a gift to me. Abby, there was no money in the envelope. In fact, the envelope wasn't even sealed.

The money could have fallen out or even been stolen. Or perhaps she may have forgotten to enclose it.

How should I reply? If I thank her for it and she never enclosed the money, she'll know I was lying. If I tell her there was no money in the envelope, it may look like I'm grabby.

How would you handle this, Abby?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Write and tell her that there was no money in the envelope. If the situation were reversed, wouldn't you want to know?

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who does not drive, so she is forever asking me to please pick up something for her at the grocery store.

I really don't mind doing this but she doesn't remember what she owes me. I hate to be petty, Abby, but I write everything down and I know what she owes me to the penny.

I don't have the nerve to bring up what she owes me. Any suggestions? I don't want to get her mad at me.

TIMID

DEAR TIMID: Yes. The next time she calls, tell her how much she owes you and what for. And if she gets mad at you, it will be her loss, not yours.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, March 23, the 83rd day of 1976. There are 283 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, Patrick Henry made a plea for American freedom in a speech before the Virginia Provincial Convention in Richmond. He declared: "Give me liberty or give me death."

On this date — In 1534, Pope Clement VII declared valid the marriage of Henry VIII of England to Catherine of Aragon.

In 1868, the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson began in Washington. He was acquitted.

In 1919, Benito Mussolini founded a new political movement in Italy.

In 1942, the wartime program of moving Japanese-Americans from their homes on the West Coast to inland camps was begun.

In 1956, Pakistan became a republic but retained membership in the British Commonwealth.

In 1965, the first two-man American space team was shot into orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla. It was the first of the Gemini series, with astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young making the pioneer flight.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson stated that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would push ahead without France, if that became necessary.

Five years ago: Eighty thousand farmers from six European countries marched in Brussels, Belgium to demand higher prices.

One year ago: In South Vietnam, Communist military forces were overrunning government positions on the outskirts of the old imperial capital of Hue and tightening their noose around the key city.

Today's birthdays: Actress and business executive Joan Crawford is 68. Irish civil right leader Bernadette Devlin is 29.

Thought for today: Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning — the Psalms.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress ended a long debate by resolving that armed American ships could act as privateers to seize British vessels on the high seas.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Connors, out here on the East Coast to publicize an ABC show in which he's starring, was asked if the cancellation of his CBS private eye series last year left him a Mannix depressive.

He just grinned. "Well," said the man who starred in "Mannix" for eight years, "there were a couple of weeks where I'd get up and feel lost. It'd been like a whole life, like a family."

"I sort of felt, 'Well, it's the end of the life.' But then I began to enjoy the time off and really started to unwind. Then, after about four, five months, I began again to get very restless."

"There wasn't enough action going on."

There is to be quite a bit of action in his new show, scheduled for April 4 on ABC. It's called "Track of the Assassin" and it's the pilot for what may become Connors' third series since 1959.

His first show, which lasted but a year, was "Tightrope," in which he played an undercover cop.

Having hung up his "Mannix" gumshoes, he now plays a former homicide detective who quit the force after a bomb blast intended for him killed his wife instead. The ex-cop has a completely new career.

He runs a boat charter operation in Los Angeles. According to Paramount Television, maker of the show, he also spends time trying to track down his wife's killer and occasionally "assists the homicide bureau on special cases."

Which sounds like an almost a-cop show arriving at a time some network executives are saying the craze for cop and private eye shows on TV is about to end, having peaked this season.

Connors, an easy-going Californian who was born in Fresno and got into acting after attending UCLA on a basketball scholarship, didn't offer an opinion on whether the era of TV flatfoots is on the wane.

However, he said a new era may be afoot: "I think the next cycle could very well be what I call 'blue-sky adventure.'"

"Instead of a series about a man going to work in the morning, working in a factory or at a profession, it'll be about a man trying to make his living at something he enjoys, working outside, which tends to lead to action-adventure."

Federal money set for funding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nearly $500 million in fiscal year 1976 federal construction money will be ready for funding early next year, said Ned E. Williams, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

The money is part of the federal construction grant program administered by the EPA. It is used for construction of waste-water treatment facilities, Williams said.

In a letter to Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, Williams said all of the agency's fiscal year 1976 money—$497 million—will be obligated by spring 1977. Seiberling had warned Ohio and other states could lose the money if it were not used by September, 1977.

However, Williams warned that water pollution cleanup in Ohio would be seriously delayed if the federal EPA doesn't allow for construction grant funding in fiscal 1977.

Delta Kappa Gamma birthday luncheon attracts over 100

Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held its birthday luncheon Saturday in the Grace United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall to commemorate the 37th year. Alpha Gamma Chapter of Chillicothe joined in the celebration. The delicious meal was prepared and served by the WSCS ladies of the Church to about 100 members and guests.

Other visitors were from Waverly, Circleville, and Lima. Mrs. Karl Harper, president of Alpha Delta Chapter welcomed the guest, and Mrs. Norine Noble, the president of Chillicothe, responded for her group. President Mrs. Marilyn Scranton of Beta Rho, Circleville, introduced her members, and Miss Harriett Shy, the first president of Beta Tau Chapter, Waverly, introduced her members. Mrs. C.E. Rhoad of Delta Gamma Chapter, Lima, was a guest of Miss Opal Davids. New members of the local Chapter present were Mrs. Gene Sagar, Mrs. Sue Cleary, and Miss Jean Davis. The Friendship Candle was lighted by Mrs. Marilyn Riley.

At the center table was seated the charter members of Alpha Gamma and Alpha Delta Chapters. A salute was given to Mrs. Evelyn Eisenaule, Mrs. Pearl Mace, and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell of Chillicothe; and Miss Opal Davids, Miss Margaret Gibson, Mrs. Harry Elliott, Mrs. Frank Mayo, (first chapter president), and Mrs. Ralph Child of Washington C.H. The table was centered with a lamp of learning candle, and a small birthday cake, decorated with both chapter names, and one red rose, the organization flower. Mrs. John Rhoads dedicated an original verse to the tune of "Memories" to these members. She also led the singing of appropriate songs by all members. Mrs. Harry Craig gave the invocation.

Members were seated at tables decorated with red, white, and blue streamers, red candle, and patriotic hats holding small American flags, which were later given as favors.

Mrs. Riley introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Mary Erwin, of Cincinnati, President of Alpha Delta State, the Ohio organization. She was dressed in a typical 1776 styled dress with dust cap to match. Her topic was "Women of the American Revolution". Abigail Smith Adams, the wife of president John Adams and mother of President John Quincy Adams, wrote many letters to her husband, giving her ideas of the place women could have in the history of our country at that time. Other women Mrs. Erwin spoke of were Mercy Otis Warren, Martha Curtis Washington, and Margaret Cochran Corbin, nicknamed "Molly." Mrs. Warren, who was a close friend of Mrs. Adams, composed and published satirical plays and poems, and is considered the "poet laureate" and "penwoman" of the cause. She also wrote an excellent 3 volume history of the Revolution.

Mrs. Washington spent light winters with her husband in such headquarters as Cambridge, New York City, Morristown, New Windsor, Newburgh, and Valley Forge, always taking with her hams, jellies, and other plantation goodies to share. She organized camp and neighborhood wives to roll bandages, knit socks, and mend shirts. She was also busy helping and encouraging the sick and wounded.

Mrs. Corbin took over her mortally-wounded husband's place in launching cannon balls. Congress made her the first woman pensioner of the United States, and she is the only woman from the Revolution to be buried in the West Point Cemetery because of service in action. This weekend Mrs. Erwin will represent the Ohio organization in the Netherlands to help charter four Chapters, that are being sponsored by Alpha Delta State.

The planning committee for the luncheon was composed of Mrs. Hugh Wilson, chairman, Mrs. Jack Montgomery, Mrs. Robert Angus, Mrs. Tran DelPonte, and Mrs. Paul Davis.

Miss Fisher chose for her wedding a long white, peasant-style gown of cotton polyester trimmed in lace with empire waistline and long sleeves. Her veil of nylon lace was elbow length. Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped gold necklace. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

The famed Blue Hole of Castalia, near Sandusky, Ohio, has been called one of the strangest springs in the world. A British officer passing it in 1761 described its spring coming from a hillside "with such force that it boils out of the ground in a column three feet high." Geologists say the wearing away of the ground resulted in the Blue Hole.

State worker says she does nothing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state employe making $18,300 a year claims her bosses have isolated her in a do-nothing job due to her political leanings and pro-labor attitude.

Joyce Saunders, 34, assistant chief of personnel in the Department of Natural Resources and head of the department's labor relations office, said today her titles are meaningless and her days are spent reading magazines.

"It's the first time in my life I've never worked," said the civil service worker who says she votes Democrat.

Saunders, a friend of Patrick Leany, the state's Democratic party executive director, was hired by the state in the auditor's department in 1971 and was transferred to the natural resources office after a few months, she said.

While in charge of personnel and labor relations, she rose to the civil service designation of Executive VI by January 1975, when a change of governors led to new conflicts for the woman.

Under the new administration of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, she claimed she began having disputes over personnel policies with her supervisor, personnel chief David D. Franklin.

"They are not pro-union unless they can run the unions themselves. They want full control," Miss Saunders said of her administrators.

She claimed her defense of workers with grievances led to her involuntary transfer in March 1975 to the Department of Administrative Services where she found herself without an office, telephone or work.

Four months later she was laid off for allegedly neglecting her duties. "How could I neglect my duties when I didn't have any," she replied.

With the help of a lawyer, she won reinstatement on Feb. 2 to her old position in the natural resources department. But even though she recovered her title and salary, she lost her responsibilities since someone else was hired to handle workers' complaints.

"Now they don't know what to do with me. That's why I am doing nothing," said Miss Saunders. She said she occupies a stark office with a phone that seldom rings, and when it does, it most likely is a worker venting frustrations.

"I advise them of their rights, but no one files complaints anymore. If someone files a complaint, they're fired," said Miss Saunders.

Traffic Court

A Greenfield man was found guilty of three traffic violations during Monday's Washington C.H. Municipal Court proceedings. Judge Robert L. Simpson also found a South Solon man innocent of a reckless operation charge.

Jerry M. Purdin, 27, of Greenfield, was fined $50 for reckless operation, and had his driver's license suspended for 10 days. For fleeing a police officer, he was fined $100 with $50 suspended providing he remain on good behavior for one year. He was fined $35 for speeding.

Kristen B. Simmerman, 27, of South Solon, was found not guilty of reckless operation due to the fact that the prosecuting witness who had issued a private warrant, did not appear.

A Springfield man, Learnin Noble, 29, was fined $250 and sentenced to three days in jail for driving while intoxicated. He also had his driver's license suspended for 30 days.

Deborah K. Yahn, 18, of Jeffersonville, received a fine of $35 for failing to stop for a school bus stopped.

Judge gets alternate school plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A new desegregation plan for Dayton schools that would not force students to change schools in the middle of the year has been presented to a federal judge here.

The proposal by the Dayton school administration was the main issue at the first day of public hearings Monday before U.S. District Judge Carl B. Rubin. Hearings were called to consider a plan written by Dr. John A. Finger Jr., who was appointed by the court in connection with its order to Dayton schools to desegregate.

The new plan is similar to Finger's in most elements. It proposes student transfers that would pair the same schools and redraws attendance lines.

The school officials eliminated freedom of enrollment and the mid-year transfer of students and teachers as called for in Finger's plan.

Under the administration's plan students would know before June which school they would attend in September.

The five key recommendations of the administration's plan are:

—That the burden of pupil assignments be the responsibility of the administration and not principals and teachers as Finger outlined.

—That parents and students know this spring which school students will be attending in September. Under Finger's plan students could be assigned to schools this summer or during the first week of school in September.

—That students will not change school at the end of the autumn-winter semester and teachers would not change buildings.

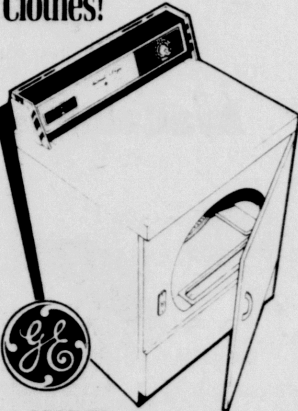

—That geographic zones be established for high schools rather than random selection of students. This process would eliminate freedom of enrollment for ninth and 10th graders. Eleventh and 12th graders would still be allowed to go to the school of their choice. The new plan would still pair four high schools, Belmont with Dunbar and Roth with Wilbur Wright.

—That three attendance zones be established for desegregating elementary schools.

Southern State sets spring class deadline

This is the last week for regular enrollment in spring quarter classes at Southern State College. Spring quarter classes will begin at both Southern State campuses on Monday, March 29. Late enrollment will continue through April 2.

Southern State College, with campuses in Wilmington and Macon, offers two-year associate degree programs in general education and twelve technical fields. Although programs are usually terminal, most courses can be transferred if a student decides to pursue a four-year baccalaureate degree after graduating from Southern State.

C. Wayne Jones, director of technical education, said that among the most popular technologies during Southern State's first year have been three business-related programs, business management, accounting, and executive secretarial. He attributed their popularity to the great demand for persons with skills and training in these areas to fill related jobs in the community.

Jones said these three programs focus on business skills and provide students with the opportunity to obtain a practical education which prepares them for rewarding careers whether they stay in the immediate area or move to a different part of the state or country.

He added that many persons already employed take courses at Southern State to improve their present skills or acquire new ones that will enable them to obtain promotions.

Students can begin a program of study during the spring quarter, and do not have to wait until fall to take basic courses. Southern State also features flexible scheduling with day and evening classes to accommodate students with limited transportation and those who want to work while attending college.

Persons interested in registering for spring or summer quarter classes at Southern State College should contact the admissions office at either campus. Phone the North Campus (Wilmington) at (513) 382-6645 or the South Campus (Macon) at (513) 695-4421.

WSHS band 'superior'

The Washington Senior High School Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Dennis Wollam, participated in the Ohio Music Education Association District Band 16 and Chorus Competition at Miami Trace High School last Saturday where they received a superior rating. The Washington

Concert Band was one of only three bands in this district to receive a superior rating.

In the competition the band performed three pieces for a panel of judges. They were judged on tone quality, intonation, expression and technical facility. Each judge writes his comments and rates the band on a scale of one through five. In addition to this, the band must sight-read a piece that it has never seen before. Here they are rated by a fourth judge.

The four scores are then averaged to determine the final rating.

State lobby discussed by Realtors

Because the association feels that no one really represents the homeowner in the state legislature, the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., maintains a political lobby.

The activities of this lobby was one of the topics discussed during the monthly meeting of the Fayette County Board of Realtors held Monday at the Terrace Lounge.

Charles A. Rice Jr., services director of the state association as well as District 5 vice president Zeke Wilson and his assistant Gary Thom offered the group a slide presentation showing some of the facilities and operations conducted by the association.

They noted that there are 37,000 Realtors serving some four million property owners in Ohio. They added that there are currently 120 bills in the state legislature which would directly or indirectly effect homeowners.

The state association of Realtors has the organization, program and facilities to represent and protect the homeowner, they said.

State official loses antenna

A radio antenna on a car belonging to the office of the Ohio Attorney General was reported stolen Monday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department stated that while the driver of the car was in the Garner's Union 76 Restaurant, located on U.S. 35 at I-71, the antenna was removed sometime between 3:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Monday.

General assembly to aid handicapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill of rights for the handicapped is scheduled for a vote in the House Tuesday as the General Assembly returns to the capitol for the week.

The bill, approved 32-0 by the Senate last year, brings discrimination against the handicapped under present civil rights laws.

“But at the same time we’ve gone beyond that,” said Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, the bill’s author. It includes restrictions against discrimination in credit, housing and insurance, among other areas.

“The bill in many areas addresses the need to make people aware of the needs of the handicapped,” Meshel said. “The problem is a lot of people would not object if they only see it as a problem.”

In its major provisions, the bill would:

- Require election boards to locate polling places in a barrier-free place by 1980.
- Require insurance companies to set fair standards for the handicapped. Meshel said some auto insurance companies charge handicapped drivers as “high risk” although national studies show them to have faster reaction time and lower accident rates.
- Require jobs and job training programs to be open to the handicapped as far as is practical.
- “We just know from experience that there are literally thousands of positions around the state that the handicapped person can perform if he’s given the opportunity,” Meshel said.

He said the handicapped persons still would have to compete for the job, but could not be discriminated against on the basis of a handicap.

- Provide special vehicle license plates to the handicapped and some special parking privileges.
- Allow tax deductions to private industries which remove architectural barriers to the handicapped.
- Require housing projects receiving state financial aid to build a reasonable number of units usable by the handicapped.

“I don’t know of any other bill in the nation that’s close to it,” Meshel said of the legislation.

Meshel said the bill does not try to create a privilege class, but instead tries to give the handicapped an equal opportunity.

Most people do not object to the provisions of the bill, he said, but simply would not think of making arrangements for the handicapped without a state law.

“They’re the most visible people when they’re present, but they’re normally the least seen,” Meshel said. “It’s not because they don’t want to be there, but because they can’t get there.”

If approved by the House Tuesday, the bill would return to the Senate for consideration of House amendments.

The House convenes at 11 a.m. Tuesday. The Senate meets at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

BURN, BABY, BURN — Obviously, the four gentlemen above are not radicals attempting to burn down a school. They are the co-signers of a $9,750 note executed 18 months ago to purchase new Miami Trace High School Band uniforms. Thoroughly enjoying the burning of the note which has been paid are (left to right) Phil Grover, Harold Thompson, Will Braun and Wilbur Rapp with the 'torch.'

School 'burning' provides enjoyment for boosters

The Miami Trace High School Band Boosters had a hot meeting Monday evening as they witnessed the burning of a bank note.

The note was $9750 for new band uniforms jackets and hats. The debt was co-signed by Phil Grover, band booster president, Harold H. Thompson, Will Braun, and Wilbur Rapp and they were all on hand to watch the note go up in flames.

In September of 1974, the boosters okayed the purchase of 135 new jackets and hats for the MTHS band members for use in the 1974-75 school year.

The deficit of $9750 was paid off in 18 months due to the efforts of the band members, themselves. They have raised money through projects such as candy sales, pecan sales, and the annual ham and turkey dinner over the past year-and-a-half to raise the needed funds.

The debt was finally paid last Saturday and several members of the booster club were on hand last night to watch the symbolic destruction of it.

It was Chief Tecumseh who urged the Creek Indians to fight the Whites in Louisiana in 1812.

This 'n that

The Fayette County Township Trustees and Clerks Association will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Madison Mills United Methodist Church. A business meeting will be conducted following dinner.

Our apologies to any area residents who attempted to attend an International Harvester tractor demonstration Tuesday afternoon outside London. Company representatives called late Monday afternoon to inform us that the demonstration had been postponed due to wet field conditions.

Taft seeks re-election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Incumbent Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. officially became a candidate for re-election today by filing petitions with the secretary of state.

Taft filed petitions with 50,000 signatures supporting his candidacy and paid a $50 filing fee.

He became the third candidate to file for the post as a Thursday deadline approached.

Others who have filed so far include former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, a Democrat, and Dr. Emma Lila Fundaburk, an independent.

James V. Stanton, a Cleveland congressman, is expected to file later this week for the Democratic nomination, as is James Nolan, a Cleveland nursing home operator.

While filing this morning, Taft said he expects no primary election opposition and is prepared to spend $1.3 million on his general election campaign.

Byrd named all-Ohio special mention

SCOL stars garner honors

COLUMBUS (AP) — Washington C.H.'s Chuck Byrd was among the list of South Central Ohio League cage stars named to the all-Ohio Class AA basketball team by the Associated Press today.

Joining the Blue Lion guard, who was a special mention choice, was Circleville's Biff Bumgarner, Greenfield

McClair's Steve Harvey and Hillsboro's Rick Seeling.

Bumgarner was a second-team choice while Harvey garnered third-team honors. Seeling was named on the honorable mention list.

Conspicuously absent from the all-Ohio team was Circleville's George Moore, who was an all-district choice.

All four SCOL cagers named were seniors.

Jim Arnzen, the clever guard for top-ranked Delphos St. John who plays for his dad, was hailed as the class AA high school basketball player of the year.

Bobby Dawson, who has led Wellsville to two undefeated regular seasons in the last three, was named

The AP's Class AA State Coach of the Year, based on recommendations by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Arnzen, a 6-foot senior who is a major college prospect because of his all-around play, helped his dad, Bob Arnzen, coach St. John to its first unbeaten regular season and the No. 1 state ranking.

The younger Arnzen averaged almost 16 points, shot 50 per cent from the floor and came up with eight assists and nine steals and interceptions per game. His quick hands keyed the Blue Jays' pressure defense.

Dawson, a Bowling Green State University graduate, has turned out a 52-1 mark in his last three regular seasons at Wellsville, including 16-0 this winter. His nine years with the Tigers has produced a 159-29 mark including six straight sectional tournament crowns.

Dawson edged Jim Lawhead of Lorain Catholic, Mike Hughes of Wheelersburg and the older Arnzen for the coaching laurels.

The younger Arnzen won the No. 1 player award from fellow first-team All-Ohioans Tom Volarich of Brookfield, Ron Wilczak of Lorain Catholic and Mike Moyer of 1975 state tournament winner Warsaw River View.

Volarich, a 6-1 senior, averaged 21 points, 6-6 senior Wilczak 18.3 points and Moyer, another 6-1 senior, 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Also on the first unit were 6-3 Pat Tabler of Cincinnati McNicholas, 6-4 Jeff Bentley of Mason, 6-6 Dean Fitzpatrick of Ironton and 6-2 Jeff Lambert of Swanton. All are seniors.

Second-team selections were 5-11 Biff Bumgarner of Circleville, 6-6 Marquis Miller of Columbus St. Charles, 6-6 Scott Spencer of Rossford, 6-3 Joe Rase of Wheelersburg, 6-1 Eddie Crowe of Carlisle, 6-4 Mike Wright of Wellsville, 6-foot Rocco Morro of Louisville Aquinas and 6-2 Bill Dodd of Oberlin Firelands.

All are seniors except Miller, a junior.

On the third team were 6-4 Dale Shepherd of St. Clairsville, 6-2 Brian Gibson of Cincinnati Greenhills, 6-4 Alan Watson of Urbana, 6-3 Steve Harvey of Greenfield McClain, 6-5 Tom Barringer of Bloomdale Elmwood, 6-1 Brian Agler of Marion Elgin, 6-1 Jerome Underwood of Girard and 6-foot Bob Lowrie of Cleveland Latin.

It's an all-senior third team except for juniors Barringer and Lowrie.

Turner, a 37-year-old internationally known yachtsman, said he first thought of purchasing the National League team only last summer. But he took charge pledging to bring this sports success-starved city a professional championship.

"Getting into the World Series in five years is my objective," he said. "But it takes time to build a winning baseball team. Time, money and effort."

The purchase price wasn't disclosed, but there were reports that it was in the $10 to $12 million range, to be paid off over a 12-year period.

Ted Turner with Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — "The team won't be sold again in my lifetime ... unless we go down the drain," said Ted Turner, the colorful millionaire communications executive who purchased the Atlanta Braves' baseball team.

Turner said he planned few changes, but one he hopes to arrange within a year involves the team nickname. He wants to change it to the Eagles to place it in line with other Atlanta pro teams such as the basketball Hawks and football Falcons.

The club had been owned by the Atlanta-LaSalle Corporation, with most of the principals involved in the baseball operation residing in Chicago.

Turner will succeed Dan Donahue as president of the club, but Donahue will remain on the board of directors and Bill Bartholomay, one of the previous owners, will retain his position as Braves chairman.

Turner said he planned few changes, but one he hopes to arrange within a year involves the team nickname. He wants to change it to the Eagles to place it in line with other Atlanta pro teams such as the basketball Hawks and football Falcons.

Bartow adopts Wooden philosophy for Hoosiers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Bartow is using some John Wooden philosophy as he prepares the UCLA Bruins for their rematch with Indiana in the NCAA basketball championships.

Wooden, who coached the Bruins to an incredible 10 national titles in 12 seasons, always stressed having his teams play their own style and not worry about the opponent.

But Bartow admits he took a far different approach when the Bruins opened the season against Indiana last November, a game the top-ranked Hoosiers won easily 84-64.

"I've usually never been caught up in what an opponent does," said Bartow, "but that was my first game as UCLA's coach and, as I've said, I overprepared my team and put too much pressure on them."

Some UCLA players said after that game that they knew Indiana's plays better than their own.

This Saturday at the Spectrum in Philadelphia when the Hoosiers and Bruins meet in the NCAA semifinals, Bartow will have a different outlook.

"We're going to emphasize what UCLA can do, not what Indiana does," Bartow said Monday.

"And if we play the way we're capable of playing ... I think we're going to win."

As for UCLA's practices this week, Bartow said, "We'll walk through Indiana's offense for about 10 minutes this Thursday. I think we spent about 10 hours on it the last time."

The "do it our way" style has been more apparent at UCLA since mid-season when the Bruins knocked off Washington and Washington State in a pair of key games that put UCLA on top of the Pacific-8 Conference for keeps after an early-season battle.

Bartow still looks back at that first game with Indiana, however.

Scarlet Knights still unbeaten

Rutgers gaining respect

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — It seems now that the Rutgers basketball team can play ball with the rest of the country. Better than most, in fact.

Criticized for a "soft" eastern schedule, the Scarlet Knights have climbed to the summit of the NCAA playoffs, the glamorous final four in Philadelphia this weekend.

They jumped over some pretty good teams to do it, too.

"We've blown most people out, so everybody's saying the schedule's easy," says Coach Tom Young. "They say it even though we've played every team in the East that has anything. We have to play the best in our area — and we do that."

"We can't play a Midwestern schedule. We can't play an Atlantic Coast Conference schedule. We're being criticized for our schedule only because they're comparing us with the other teams in the Top Ten. But that says a lot for our program when they start comparing us with those teams."

After winning their first 10 games, the Scarlet Knights received recognition as a Top Twenty team. When they continued to go unbeaten, they leaped into the Top Ten and finally, after finishing the regular season without a loss, wound up No. 4.

Now they're shooting for the NCAA moon.

"Playing in the final four is a dream that very few players or coaches realize in their lifetimes," says Young, "and we are there. There is no doubt that we are not as physical as Indiana and UCLA, but I don't think that they will be as quick as we are."

Rutgers may get a chance to play either Indiana or UCLA in Monday night's finals, but before then will have to beat Michigan in Saturday's semifinals at the Spectrum. Ironically, the Wolverines have a strikingly similar style of play.

"They have a freshman center (Phil Hubbard) just like we do (Jim Bailey)," points out Young, "and they have a great point guard in Rickey Green, just like our Ed Jordan. And Michigan likes to run, just like we do."

"I've heard that Michigan is a more physical team than ours, but I don't think that's necessarily true. They let them play a more physical brand of ball in the Big Ten and that may not be true in Philadelphia."

Claim hockey violence mostly imagination

By The Associated Press

To Clarence Campbell, reports of excessive violence in the National Hockey League are sheer fantasy. "It's just the product of the imagination of a lot of kooks who know nothing about it," says the NHL president.

Despite intrusion of the courts, nothing has happened so far that makes him believe present NHL disciplinary stands are unacceptable. He maintains that the rough play in the league today is "pantywaist" compared with the pre-expansion period, prior to 1967, when the NHL had only six teams.

Golden Seals lash St. Louis Blues, 7-1

OAKLAND (AP) — California's Rick Hampton set two team records as the Golden Seals overpowered the St. Louis Blues 7-1 in the only National Hockey League game played Monday night.

"They came out strong against us and got that first goal, but we were skating well after that and it just seemed that they kept going downhill and we could do nothing wrong," Hampton said after the rout.

Leo Cardenas faces break-in charge

CINCINNATI (AP) — Texas Rangers shortstop Leo Cardenas was bound over to the Hamilton County Grand Jury Monday on a charge of breaking and entering his ex-wife's apartment.

The five-time All-Star infielder was granted permission to leave for spring training with the provision he would return for arraignment if indicted.

Bail for Cardenas, who spent nine seasons with the Cincinnati Reds, was set at $500.

BIDDY LEAGUE CHAMPS — Wilson Elementary School won the Miami Trace Biddy League championship with a perfect, 5-0, record. Team members are (front row, left to right) Bryan Cockerill, Jay Gebhart, Vince Macri, Bruce Thomas, Tommy Haines, Mark Bryant, Chris Hagler, Steve Vermillion, Jimmy Chaney, (back row) Coach Jack Merriman, John Gass, Raymond Rodgers, Steve Wieland, Jeff Spilker, Andy Merriman, Barry Bach, Randy Shears, Steve Grooms and Coach Randy Merriman.

The American League had 12 pitchers who won 20 or more games in 1973.

This could be Royals' year...

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — After finishing second to Oakland last year in the American League West, the Kansas City Royals went shopping for some right-handed batting muscle.

They had no luck. But that could be their only weak spot. There are compelling indications that this could be the Royals' year.

Last year's club won 91 games, a total exceeded only by the four division winners.

The infield is stocked with potential superstars at first and third. Overall, there is more depth. The pitching corps, while not without question marks, appears more promising than ever.

Manager Whitey Herzog feels the Royals should open the 1976 season stronger than in 1975 for two reasons.

"First of all, we will open the season with a stronger pitching staff," he says. "Secondly, I know a lot more about my players, and they know what I expect."

Herzog was hired July 24 from the staff of the California Angels to replace the fired Jack McKeon, and the team immediately perked up.

During his 76-game tenure the Royals went 41-25, fattening the team batting average 13 points to .267, lowering the earned run average from 3.75 to 3.06.

The pitching ace is Steve Busby. The stylish right-hander who crafted no-hitters in 1973 and '74 was sailing along toward a second straight 20-plus season when a line drive popped him on the pitching elbow.

He missed two turns and finished 18-12, but is thought to have regained top form.

The other three starters are Dennis Leonard, hard-throwing right-hander who had a sensational rookie year, Paul Splittorff, the lone left-hander, who rebounded well from a miserable beginning in 1975, and Al Fitzmorris, a sinker-balling veteran.

Doug Bird, who has anchored the bullpen for several seasons, is expected to be worked into the starting rotation "maybe by the middle of May."

Veteran right-hander Marty Pattin proved he could be the main fireman last season, and is expected to get plenty of help from lefties Ray Sadecki and Steve Mingori.

John Mayberry returns at first base with a five-year million-dollar contract in his pocket. The powerful left-hander posted a .291 batting average last year and set club records for home runs, 34, RBI, 106, total bases, 303, and slugging average, .547.

Herzog says he wouldn't trade 22-year-old George Brett for any other third baseman in baseball.

The husky Brett, who throws right and bats left, led the league in hits with 195 while batting .308. The brother of New York Yankee pitcher Ken Brett, he possesses wide range, quick hands and a howitzer arm.

Phils 1, Tigers 0 in exhibition

Pitchers sharp, batters cold

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — This is supposed to be the time baseball pitchers still can't find home plate, rookie hitting phenoms are spraying line-drive doubles all over the place and Florida exhibition games last three hours and wind up 12-9.
But this is 1976 and little, if anything, has gone according to Hoyle in major league baseball.
The Philadelphia Phillies and Detroit

Tigers opened the much-delayed exhibition campaign Monday night. The pitchers were sharp, the hitters dull, the game short and the crowd large as the Phillies nipped Detroit 1-0 on a ninth-inning sacrifice fly by Jerry Martin.
The continuing contract squabble between club owners and players — which lopped more than two weeks of practice and about a dozen games off everyone's schedule — seemed ancient history.

Tourists, eager to watch some baseball, finally got the opportunity and 4,233 showed up at 4,075-seat Marchant Stadium.

"They (the owners) had a lot of expenses and it was best that we got on with the games," said Rusty Staub, who was 2-for-2 in his Tiger debut. "We were ready enough and the Phillies felt the same way."

Detroit was originally scheduled to play Boston while the Phillies were to have hosted Minnesota. Neither of those teams felt ready for game action, since camps opened only Thursday at the command of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Most players had been working at make-shift camps before that.

Despite the usual flood of lineup changes typical in Grapefruit League games, Monday night's contest lasted just one hour 51 minutes.

Jim Kaat, the fast-working 37-year-old lefthander acquired from the Chicago White Sox in the off-season, started for Philadelphia and pitched four strong shutout innings. His counterpart, veteran righthander Joe Coleman—coming off two poor seasons in which he was hampered by wildness — gave up two hits in three scoreless innings and didn't walk anyone.

Meanwhile, most teams held intrasquad games Monday as managers sought to get in as much game action as possible to offset the 17-day delay in the opening of spring training camps.

Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Dave Parker arrived in the club's camp Monday, took part in an intra-squad game and belted a home run on his fourth swing of the bat.

Butch Wynegar, a 20-year-old rookie catcher, hit a grand slam home run to highlight a three-hour controlled intrasquad game held by the Minnesota Twins.

Luis Tiant, the Boston Red Sox' 35-year-old pitching ace, threw hard in batting practice for 15 minutes and then said, "I feel good. I'm more advanced right now that I was at this time last year. I worked out before I came down here, and I'm okay."

The Cleveland Indians, meanwhile, suffered their first injury of 1976 when second baseman Duane Kuiper came up with a sprained right ankle. He'll be out from three days to a week.

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson announced that Dennis Eckersley, the American League's rookie pitcher of the year in 1975 with a 13-7 record and 2.60 earned run average, will pitch the Indians' season opener against Detroit in Cleveland Stadium April 10.

Rose, Bench, join Reds' rookies

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Pete Rose is one of only three Cincinnati Reds regulars scheduled to play when the world champions open exhibition play Wednesday against the Baltimore Orioles.

And Rose wishes he wasn't making the trip. "I can get more done staying behind than I can be playing three innings in each of three games," said the Reds' third baseman.

Rose, catcher Johnny Bench and outfielder Ken Griffey will make the trip with rookies and reserves. Manager Sparky Anderson said it will be the middle of next week before he puts all the regulars in the lineup.

Meanwhile Rose has been one of the busiest Reds in camp, fielding hundreds of ground balls a day in a bid to improve his arm at third base.

"I couldn't have any more confidence at third than I have now. Only thing I was concerned about was the delay. It's just a matter of rhythm and practice," said the Reds' nine-time All-Star.

"I enjoy third. It's not like standing in the outfield hoping they hit something to you. The only people you have out there are people who throw bottles at you," he said with a laugh.

All eight Latin American players were expected to be in camp by today, barring further visa difficulties.

Jerry Kapstein, attorney for three of the unsigned Reds, was expected to confer with Reds officials today. He represents Dave Concepcion, Don Gullett and Will McEnaney.

Tribe's Robinson ready with opening day lineup

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians were a fourth-place team in 1975, but you wouldn't know it from the speed with which Manager Frank Robinson has picked his opening day lineup.

Robinson said Monday, with one qualification, he has his lineup and batting order set for Cleveland's opening day meeting at the Stadium with Detroit, April 10.

The only question mark is at catcher, where young Alan Ashby and newly reacquired Ray Fosse are competing for the top job.

"Right now my mind is wide open," Robinson said. "We'll have to pick our catcher according to which one does the best job in our exhibition schedule."

"What I really think will happen," he added, "is that we'll have two regular catchers, with Ashby and Fosse sharing the games almost equally."

"The only way I can see one guy playing a lot more than the other is if that guy has such a hot bat I won't be able to take him out of the lineup," Robinson said.

New MSU AD busy

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Joe Kearney will have his hands full when he arrives in East Lansing April 1 as Michigan State University's new athletic director.

His office is already accepting applications for both the football and basketball head coaching vacancies.

Kearney will reduce the candidates to about six in each sport before discussing the applicants' merits with a subcommittee from the school's athletic council and Dr. Clifton Wharton, president of MSU.

That screening committee will then come up with one recommendation for each job and will submit those names to the school's board of trustees. Wharton has said he hopes to make the recommendations before April 13, the date scheduled for the opening of spring football practice.

Six people have applied for the job of head football coach, and there apparently will be no shortage of applications for the basketball coaching job, either.

Ron Ekker, former Hillsdale College coach who guided West Texas State to a 19-7 record and third place in the Missouri Valley Conference this season, mailed his application Monday.

Clay Bryant of the San Francisco Giants was the only National League hurler to win 20 games in 1973. He won 24.

They'll Do It Every Time

Speaking of Your Health...
Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Caesarean Section Not Dangerous

Is it an added risk if a baby is born by Caesarean section? I still have three months to go and I could use the added assurance that your columns seem to offer.

Mrs. M.S.D., Wash., D.C.
Dear Mrs. D.:

Let me immediately assure you that the risk to the baby and to you is not increased by the need for Caesarean delivery.

It is estimated that about four women in every hundred will have their babies delivered by Caesarean section. The removal of a child through an abdominal incision rather than through the vaginal canal has been safely performed for many years.

The reason that the risk is so slight is because of the added safety of anesthesia, the greater skill in surgery, and the use of post-operative antibiotics to prevent infection.

Years ago, such an operation caused a great deal of concern to the wife and husband when first they were told that a Caesarean operation was necessary. There are many excellent university hospitals that perform Caesarean operations with greater regularity when the position of the child is unusual. Normally the head presents itself first. When the buttocks (breech) presents itself, Caesarean section may be the procedure of choice.

Whenever there is a disproportion between the size of the baby's head and the mother's pelvic bones, the operation is performed. It is also important for you to know that your decision to have more children should not be affected by this kind of delivery.

My daughter constantly plays with the inside of her mouth. She chews on it and sometimes makes it bleed. I worry that a cancer will develop.

Mrs. H.O., Okla.
Dear Mrs. O.:

Persistent injury caused by biting can produce ulceration in the mucous membrane lining of the mouth. I do not believe that cancer formation is, at the present time, your greatest problem. It is true that such repeated injury may in later life be the seat of cellular changes. Yet your present objective should be to find out why your daughter persists in this habit. It must be obvious to you that this represents some psychological need. It is evidently a "nervous habit" that might be analogous to a tic of the eyes, nail-biting or constant picking of the face.

Persistent nagging and pressure to desist are not the answer to her problem. With kindness, patience, understanding and perhaps support from one who is psychologically trained, the habit will stop. More important than stopping the habit is to help her find release from the emotional tensions that are responsible.

Opening lead - four of spades.

The opening lead often makes or breaks a contract, and we can all testify to this from bitter experience. There is nothing more consistently difficult in bridge than finding the most effective opening lead, but that doesn't mean the task is altogether hopeless.

One can frequently deduce, either from the bidding or from one's hand, which card will probably be the best opening shot. There may not be a feeling of 100 per cent confidence in the final choice, but that is not necessary when the evidence clearly points in one direction.

Consider this deal where West, after ruling out a diamond or club lead, elected to lead his stronger major. Declarer won the spade lead with the king and quickly ran off nine tricks to score 600 points.

Had West led a heart, he would have defeated the contract five tricks — 500 points! East would win the heart with the jack, shift to the queen of spades, and declarer would wind up losing the first nine tricks instead of winning them.

Of course, it is easy enough — looking at all four hands — to see that the heart lead is right. But the fact is that the heart lead is demonstrably best without seeing all the hands. West can reason that on the bidding South has either the king of spades or the Q-J-x, and that a spade lead is apt to help declarer more than hurt him.

Conversely — again judging from the bidding — a heart lead is likely to find East with heart honors sitting over North's heart honors, and hence is the more attractive lead. All the evidence indicates that a heart lead is the winner, but West allowed himself to be influenced unduly by his greater spade strength.

One of the biggest snow jobs we see today is this pollution farce. The con starts with the implication that "every day, in every way, we get more and more polluted." But the facts show that the reverse is true. Government figures show that practically every city in the United States shows a steady fall in air pollution from 1933 to the present. We are told that we are in danger of a depletion of the oxygen supply. Fact is that carbon monoxide will kill us all. unlimited. If ALL the organic material on earth were oxidized it would reduce the atmospheric concentration of oxygen by less than 1 per cent. We hear that carbon monoxide will kill us all. Sure, this gas is toxic, and each year man adds 270 million tons to the air. But in all the years our automobiles have been adding this toxic gas to our atmosphere the concentration hasn't increased one bit, nor will it. And there's a good reason: Nature has a balancing system that keeps the level. But if the CO level in Los Angeles (and that's about as high as you'll get) bugs you, think of the CO content of cigarette smoke that will run about a thousand times higher. So who's kidding whom?

The "thermal pollution" con bugs me more than the others. There's nothing that man has devised that can hold a candle to the sun for raising the temperature of our lakes and streams. And you get the character who proudly displays the bumper sticker, BAN DDT. Well, Nobel Prize winner Dr. Norman Borlaug has stated: "If DDT is banned by the United States, I have wasted my life's work. I have dedicated myself to finding better methods of feeding the world's starving population. Without DDT and other important agricultural chemicals, our goals are simply unattainable."

Yes, friend, you've been had by some of the slickest con artists in the business. Why? Simple. What's behind every con? Money. If you want to chase down this hanky-panky, start by reading THE EIGHT SURPRISES, by John J. McKetta, Department of Chemical Engineering, University of Texas. As Chairman of the National Air Quality Commission he speaks with authority. And if this pamphlet interests you, go on and read THE ROCKEFELLER FILE by Gary Allen. Sure, we have both publications in our book department.

THE BIRDS, animals & flowers are dying to tell us...
"Give a hoot, don't pollute."

Hula sways Kiwanis opinion of Hawaii

The high spot of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting held Monday, was Miss Susan Bailey's attempts to teach seven club members the hula dance.

The hula instruction was the finale to a presentation by Miss Bailey held in the Terrace Lounge, concerning various aspects of Hawaiian culture.

Miss Bailey, who was born in Honolulu and spent many years there, explained that although the population is mainly of Japanese extraction, the islands are considered a melting pot of nationalities. According to Miss Bailey, the first written Hawaiian language was introduced by missionaries, with the alphabet containing only 12 letters.

Among the articles that Miss Bailey exhibited was tapa cloth, made from the mulberry tree and used as tapestry, and the well-known lei, made from a bean plant as well as flowers.

The special program was concluded by Miss Bailey's demonstration of the traditional hula dance in native costume. Seven club members also attempted the traditional dance.

Tom LeVan, co-chairman of the "Teen Talent Show" announced that 34 applications have been submitted, and that auditions are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Middle School auditorium.

George Gibbs introduced Richard Kilian to the club. Kilian was voted honorary membership by the board of directors in recognition of his past leadership and contribution to the club in its early years.

Kiwanis Club 17-year pins were conferred upon Louie Kuhlwein, and Bob Parrett.

Ohio Bell's commercial manager Susan Link was the club's guest for the dinner and program.

Ohio gains business

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Foreign firms have placed a minimum of $792,000 "in firm orders" with Ohio companies as a result of contracts made during a recent trade mission to Europe, Development Director James A. Duerk says.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, Duerk and other state officials visited business representatives in Belgium, West Germany, Italy, France, Britain, Spain, Switzerland, Austria, Sweden, Norway, Yugoslavia and the Netherlands.

LEGAL NOTICE
REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS
FISCAL YEAR 1977

COMPREHENSIVE MANPOWER PROGRAMS
Notice is hereby given that the Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 8, is requesting proposals for FY 77 Manpower Programs. Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services lead to maximum employment opportunities. Economically disadvantaged persons have been chosen as the primary priority group for the RMSC plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of household; youth in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled; older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans (within each of the above groups). The Council has established the following goals for FY 77: 1) to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; 2) continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disregarded by the mainstream of jobs in this region, in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; 3) emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 8. Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. Geographic area to be served is RMSC 8: Clinton, Fairfield, Fayette, Madison, Pickaway, and Union Counties. Applications may be obtained from your county's Community Action Program office. Further information may be obtained from the CAP office, from John Borrowman, RMSC 8 Chairman at (513) 382-8365, or from Barbara Thall, RMSC 8 Field Representative at (414) 466-8428 or 1-800-282-1050 (toll free). Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, Planning Coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St., 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976. Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request.

Car tours roadside, driver cited

After traveling 225 feet on and off U.S. 35, a Washington C.H. man's car finally came to rest in a ditch on the side of the roadway.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that Fred Brown, 19, of 2532 Ohio 41-S, went off the right side of U.S. 35 near Ford Road at 8:20 a.m. Monday.

The car struck some fence, and then continued 90 feet on the right side before coming back on the roadway and traveling 105 feet. The car went off the right side again, proceeding 30 feet before striking more fence and stopping in a ditch. There was slight damage to Brown's car, and he was cited for failing to drive on the right half of the roadway.

Krista J. Overly, 16, of 3491 Old Springfield Rd., made a left turn off the Bogus Road in Union township into a private drive, and struck a parked car belonging to Charles L. Campbell, 45, of 1251 Bogus Rd. The impact caused Campbell's car to be pushed forward, and it bumped his garage and house in the process. The 6 p.m. Monday accident resulted in slight damage to Miss Overly's car and moderate damage to Campbell's vehicle. There was no damage to the house.

Washington C.H. police officers reported that a 6:49 a.m. Monday collision at the intersection of Temple and North Streets was the result of red light violations. Benjamin J. Kinnison, 52, of Jeffersonville claimed that as he was traveling south on North Street and approaching The Temple Street intersection, a car driven by Mander Boggs, 62, of Rt. 3 Bush Road, ran a red light and a collision ensued. Boggs, who was traveling east on Temple Street, claimed Kinnison ran a red light. There was severe damage to Kinnison's car, and moderate damage to Boggs'.

Max E. Bobst, 22, of 757 Staunton-Jasper Rd., reportedly struck in the rear a car driven by Timothy A. Stout, 16, of Chillicothe, who had stopped to make a left turn from Court Street onto North Street at 6:47 p.m. Monday. Stout's car incurred moderate damage, while Bobst, whose car was severely damaged, was cited by police officers for failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

A 7:42 a.m. Monday collision occurred at the corner of Gregg and North Streets, and police officers said that due to the nature and position of the debris after the accident, Daniel E. Armbrust, 29, of 517 Gregg St., had been traveling left of center. Armbrust was in the process of turning left from Gregg Street onto North Street when he collided with a car driven by Lisa J. Roberts, 18, of 924 Lakeview Ave. There was slight damage to both cars.
